Thread: [Adding a forum to my site \[500K Monthly users\]](#)

SyyK - February 11, 2016, 10:59 am

Hey,

I'm the owner of <https://www.coc-servers.com/>

Also <http://aurity.io/> is mine.

I now want to combine both sites to one...So the Forum is used a lot more. (The forum will have some good stuff aswell.)

Does anyone have an idea how to do this? (Like finding a good way to connect/combine them together?)

Thanks for any help!

Well, I do have a forum already setted up, with some members.

What I'm looking for is combining both of my sites to one, so the forum gets much more active.

Thanks

In what way do you exactly want to combine?

Have it embedded within or just port the entire thing over?

If you want to keep the forum on one website and just send the traffic from the other website to the forum, one way you could do it is maybe setup a subdomain forum.website.com and redirect it to the address of the forum you already have set up?

Yeah, but I'd like to keep the current (coc-servers) website. I'm more looking for a good way to integrate my forum into it. (As I have over 500K monthly users...There's a lot of potential for a forum.)

Thanks

Why not download the database and files, upload the db to the coc server and the files to another folder(let's say /forums) then fix the shit in the config file(if mybb fix the settings file also for the domain).

After that, go to the forums domain and make it redirect to the coc website.

Note I don't know how to do anything but download the db/file and upload them lol.

I don't know shit about domains other than typing them in xD

But I'll still help if I can

Yeah, but I need an exact idea of the design (How exactly I will connect the forum with the current website.)

That's the problem I'm looking to solve haha

Thanks for any help!

I'm going to call the coc website A and the forum website B.

Download the files AND database from site B.

Upload files from site B to site A server(ftp / file manager). I suggest inside a folder called forum(or close to that)

Now after that, you want to IMPORT site B database to site A.

I can help with this part I know how to do that (lol)

Now after that's all up(and running good) [test it]

redirect site B to site A (ex: siteA/forums).

Again, I can help with the exporting/importing of the database and getting the files and uploading them and helping you make sure the forum works.
