Kinguin - February 15, 2016, 2:31 pm

Well, post one of the most sad/romantic love stories that you've ever heard.

Will choose the winner of the best story tomorrow.

Let me start, as this shit is so deep :(:

A girl and guy were speeding over 100 mph on a motorcycle.

Girl: Slow down. I'm scared.

Guy: No this is fun.

Girl: No its not. Please, it's too scary!

Guy: Then tell me you love me.

Girl: Fine, I love you. Slow down! Guy: Now give me a big hug. (Girl hugs him)

Guy: Can you take my helmet off and put it on? It's bugging me.

In the paper the next day: A motorcycle had crashed into a building because of brake failure. Two people were on the motorcycle, but only one survived. The truth was that halfway down the road, the guy realized that his brakes broke, but he didn't want to let the girl know. Instead, he had her say she loved him, felt her hug one last time, then had her wear his helmet so she would live even though it meant he would die.

Spoiler (Click to View) Once there was this boy and girl who loved each other. They wanted to get married and have kids, the whole nine yards but the boy had a heart condition which caused him to go into a coma. The boy had everything in life a great family, great friends and was loved the girl didn't have a family and no friends the only person she loved was him. One day while she was in the waiting room she overheard his mother and father talking to the doctor.

-He doesn't have much time left - the doctor said.

-No, Doctor you have to do something - his mother said.

-There's nothing I can do. His heart is giving up and he's all the way at the bottom of the donor list - the doctor said.

-There must be another option!

-I'm sorry unless we find another heart that match's with his then there is nothing else we can do - the doctor said.

-Oh God, please don't let my little boy die - the mother said while crying into her husband's chest while he tried to calm her down.

The girl felt her heart break and knew she had to do something, she went to the Doctor and asked to talk to him. The next night she sat by him and started talking but knew that he wasn't listening so she wrote to him. She kissed his head and slept by him that night.

The next day the Doctor gave the parents the good news and told them that if all goes well then he should be back to normal in 2 weeks time. The operation went better than planned and the boy woke up the earlier than expected, it was a great reunion.

-Mom where is she - Boy asked his Mother.

-I don't know son - Mom said to the boy just before the Doctor came in.

-How do you feel - Doctor asked the Boy.

-I'm fine but I want to ask you something - Boy said.

-Go ahead - The doctor said.

-Doctor who was my donor ? he asked the doc.

-This girl - the doc said.

-What girl ? he asked.

-She came in everyday and sat in the waiting room. I don't know who she was waiting for or if she met the person but she did tell me to give you this ? the doc said while handing him the letter. He opened the letter and saw it only had 6 words in it.

-Take good care of my heart.

Ugh, this teared me up.

Spoiler (Click to View) A girlfriend gave a challenge to her boyfriend to live a day without her.

No communication at all and said if he passed it, she'll love him forever.
He never texted nor called her for the whole day without knowing, his girlfriend has only 24 hours left because she was dying due to cancer.
After a day, he excitedly went to her house, "I did it baby".
But tears fell as he saw his girlfriend lying in a coffin with a note "you did it baby...now please do it everyday... I love you."

Too long to copy and paste but I will just link you to it, not sure if this person is the original writer of the story as I've seen it many places but this is probably the saddest of all.

This is my entry -

There was a blind girl who was filled with animosity and despised the world. She didn't have many friends, just a boyfriend who loved her deeply, like no one else. She always used to say that she'd marry him if she could see him. Suddenly, one day someone donated her a pair of eyes.

And that's when she finally saw her boyfriend. She was astonished to see that her boyfriend was blind. He told her, "You can see me now, can we get married?"

She replied, "And do what? We'd never be happy. I have my eye sight now, but you're still blind. It won't work out, I'm sorry."

With a tear in his eye and a smile on his face, he meekly said, "I understand. I just want you to always be happy. Take care of yourself, and my eyes."

When my sister was younger she came home from school one day and demanded that I take her to the library so she could get books on sign language.

I asked why? She told me there was a new kid at school who was deaf and she wanted to befriend him.

Today I stood beside her at their wedding watching her sign "I do".

While a man was polishing his brand new car his 4 year old son was found scratching his car with a pin. In anger, the man took the child's hand and beat it many times with a wrench without realising. At the hospital the child lost all his fingers due to multiple fractures. When the child saw his father he asked "Dad when will my fingers grow back ". The man was so hurt he went back to his car and kicked it many times devastated by his own actions. He looked at the scratches his son made and it said "I love you dad"

As you can tell this happens to a lot of people and is known as the friend zone. It is very very very sad when this happens.

This story turned my life upside down, and I am not the same person any more.....

It was during last year's summer. I used to live in a small town near the capital, I studied and lived there. I had a steady boyfriend for almost 2 years; we loved and respected each other. He studied in the same university I did. We would see each other every day, take a walk together, we took pleasure in the love that filled us, we were more than happy, but...as you know all good things come to an end.

Problems started when after my last annual exam I decided to go to the seaside with my friends from the town where my parents live. My boyfriend didn't come cause he didn't have the opportunity (he had work in the town). So one morning my friends and I left for the seaside. We arrived somewhere around 1 am at night. We went to the hotel to check in, took a quick shower and went to bed, cause we were all dead tired. On the next morning we went to the beach. The first thing I noticed was the most amazing man I have ever seen, a handsome man sitting alone on the beach, obviously waiting for someone. I told my friends to go and I will catch them later.

I approached him and with some cheek I sat on the sand next to him, I looked at him and smiled. He immediately gave me his hand as if he had been waiting for this all day long. So we introduced each other and chatted for over an hour, he told me a lot about himself, and I basically told him everything. And suddenly, when we both paused talking and as if we were enjoying one another, he said that obviously the friend he was waiting for, won't be coming. He invited me for a coffee and I accepted, of course. I was so happy and pleased with him, it was a long time since I had so much fun. He was treating me (someone he didn't know) so well, making me laugh, I felt so good....I didn't want this moment to end. So we went for a coffee and we chatted for almost 2 hours. He told me how much he loved the sea, and I supported him fully in this. We liked each other so much, we felt we've know each other forever.

When I was leaving for the seaside, despite my good mood, I thought I would not stop thinking of "my man" and would not have good time, but while I was with Mario (that was the name of the boy I met at the beach) I did not think of Steve (my friend in the town) not even once. I was so happy and enjoying the moment.....

After that I started going out with Mario, and not with my friends, day after day. Days would pass and I kept feeling amazing..... but then the day I had to leave came. I felt terrible. Mario was from other city and the distance was so huge...I think I loved him.. He also felt bad that we I had to leave, but that's life. We promised to write and to see each other next summer.

I left for my home town, and he remained at the sea, we were so far from each other.....

After a long and boring trip I came back home and when I arrived my parents called me to see if I was all right. After that Steve called, my God, I had totally forgotten about him, but fate reminded me where I was....

A couple of hours after I arrived I met Steve and you know what.....my heart beat faster. SO my "previous love" for him burst out again after 20 days absence??? We spent 2 hours together and he kept asking how I spent at the seaside and I was forced to think of something, I wasn't ready to tell him the truth. After all I was cheating on him the whole time...

Everything was back to normal, but I wasn't the same. In my thoughts he was "my prince Mario". God, you should hear my heart beating when I think of him, my heart was filled with love.

A couple of days later Steve and I went to my parents' place. We thought of spending some time with them. One day as I was sitting and having lunch with Steve and my parents, I felt sick. My mother said she would come with me to the doctor. I was told I was pregnant. My God, I stood shocked, we had sex the previous night with Steve, but it was not possible that I got pregnant. I was certain, the child was Mario's. How would I tell my parents, they would certainly drive me away, they loved Steve so much. So I kept it all to myself and everybody was happy. I was most happy cause I would give birth to a child from my loved one. ..

In the meantime I kept receiving letters from Mario almost every week and was so happy. One day in one of my letters I shared that I was pregnant from him; I thought he would be happy and that he would want to see me, but alas.....after this letter he stopped writing and I never got an answer from him.

I was tempted to look for him, to find out what he was doing and thinking, but I realized he left the address he was living on.

Now, months after this, I am pregnant, married to Steve and unhappy. Where is the love of my life? So his I-love-you's were all lies? Maybe I am to blame, cause I cheated on the man who loved me and was truthful to me? What is wrong with me? Why do I keep loving the one from the sea who hurt me so much?

I live with my parents with Steve now, he loves me dearly and I pretend. I don't know how much I would stand this.

My parents want to buy us a house, for me, my husband and the innocent baby that is going to be born.

How do I live with this lie? The child will remind me of my big, seaside love.....and it is not guilty, it has the right to live, and I would need to keep living with Steve and pretend I am happy...What if in the meantime I die of sadness for my beloved one???

A girl asked a boy if she was pretty, he said "No". She asked him if he wanted to be with her forever, he said "No". Then she asked him if he would cry if she walked away, he said "No". She had heard enough; she needed to leave.

As she walked away he grabbed her arm and said : go kill urself.

A romantic story:

I've waited for this all my life,
The warm feel I got when I touched,
The watery mouth I've contained with just a look,
Nothing ever looked more beautiful or so amazing.
