

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Are giveaways allowed in order to get rep ?

Accounts4U - February 16, 2016, 6:42 am

Hi,

Are giveaways of netflix, hulu etc allowed in order to get rep ?

i just seen someone doing it, i didnt want to start doing it without asking as im trying to get ub3r status. thanks guys

w?????illiam???? - February 16, 2016, 6:44 am

First, you cant even giveaway NFA accounts to begin with (netflix, hulu, etc)

Second, this belongs in the RANF forum, with the prefix "Policy Q"

Third, usually people do try to get rep while hosting a giveaway, but you cannot ask for rep as a requirement for an entry to the giveaway.

Duk. - February 16, 2016, 6:45 am

No most definitely not allowed thankfully. Usually people imply they want rep but you cannot directly ask or really say much about rep,etc. Alongside what William said about the NFA rules.

Accounts4U - February 16, 2016, 6:47 am thanks for the replies guys, glad i didnt just go ahead and do it then. I think i will have a proper read over the rules now. I dont want to lose the little bit of trust i have :)

Duk. - February 16, 2016, 6:48 am

(Feb 16, 2016 07:47 AM)darrenw88 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) thanks for the replies guys, glad i didnt just go ahead and do it then. I think i will have a proper read over the rules now. I dont want to lose the little bit of trust i have :)

Yeah, I'd read the rules especially if you want rep. I mean obviously all new members would love to be rich in reputation but really it's earned throughout deals and moving up as a member in the lounge, or sector of primary use (counter strike, etc) I'd say just take your time and befriend people.

Also, to those of you saying it is wrong sector, yes there is a better sector but truly it does still fall under Marketplace Discussion so I don't blame OP.

Accounts4U - February 16, 2016, 6:49 am

(Feb 16, 2016 07:48 AM)di0de Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah, I'd read the rules especially if you want rep. I mean obviously all new members would love to be rich in reputation but really it's earned throughout deals and moving up as a member in the lounge, or sector of primary use (counter strike, etc) I'd say just take your time and befriend people.

i totally get you. its a slow process but at least its the right way. i have a really awesome generator i want to promote. But it can wait for now. Thanks again for your help, really appreciate it

Duk. - February 16, 2016, 6:50 am

(Feb 16, 2016 07:49 AM)darrenw88 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) i totally get you. its a slow process but at least its the right way. i have a really awesome generator i want to promote. But it can wait for now. Thanks again for your help, really appreciate it

Yeah, I saw you bought someone's gen I just suggest selling accounts if the owner allows you to and just trying to get to know people. Rep isn't that big of a deal.

Accounts4U - February 16, 2016, 8:16 am

(Feb 16, 2016 07:50 AM)di0de Wrote: CITE Yeah, I saw you bought someone's gen I just suggest selling accounts if the owner allows you to and just trying to get to know people. Rep isn't that big of a deal.

that was a while ago. i have my own now. i crack all the accounts myself. i can prove the accounts i crack are not from other gens if i need to. i literally havent signed into that gen for a few months. since i started cracking my own i have no need. also, i have more premium ones like [disallowed], premier league pass, eros now. you wont see these in any other gen :)

Sam Winchester - February 16, 2016, 12:21 pm

If someone decides to give you rep after you've given something to them, it's perfectly fine and allowed. However, as always, you can't ask or even hint members to give you rep (this is a sitewide rule and there are no exceptions to this).