

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Cleaning out the premium-sellers section

Raz Riverblade - February 20, 2016, 5:49 am

The premium sellers section is cluttered with e-books.

E-books have a seperate section, it'd be great to see those moved.

i'd like to be able to browse the marketplace without getting semi-scams and other worthless e-books drown the good products.

minimalist - February 20, 2016, 5:59 am

I don't see what's wrong with having a premium section for premium users to sell their ebooks.

VirtualFrost - February 20, 2016, 6:23 am

This kinda makes sense, but at the same time I see the Premium section as more of a place more users would look through as they'd consider them more 'trusted'. Seeing as there isn't restriction like Online Accounts and how they can only be in that sections, I don't see a reason to limit these down to the eBook section only.

Evil Bob - February 20, 2016, 6:32 am

I agree with this. Keep the crappy eBooks in their designated section. We have to look around the eBooks and the "new and amazing super duper, never seen before, make $1 million a day" methods just to see the actual premium section.

Raz Riverblade - February 20, 2016, 6:33 am

(Feb 20, 2016 06:59 AM)Minimalist Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't see what's wrong with having a premium section for premium users to sell their ebooks.

because there's a separate section.

and the e-books are far from premium. we all know 99.9% of them are utter crap and a huge waste of money