True, I can't even count how many times I find myself rewatching certain fight scenes from a bunch of diff anime ;-;

daniael12 - February 29, 2016, 7:53 am

Lol, seen One piece 3 times + reread 2 times. Seen death note twice.

Ang?I - February 29, 2016, 8:10 am

I've yet to rewatch anything. Don't really see the point.

But action/harem-y anime are great to rewatch!

I mean there are shows I absolutely loved but I'd still rather watch something new. Idk personal preference I guess.

Fair enough. I'm at the point where I've seen nearly every generic action/harem so I tend to rewatch a lot, since those are the most enjoyable for me.

Duyere - February 29, 2016, 10:10 am

I'm in the midst of watching anime that I haven't seen in at least five years. It's always nice to come back to an anime years later. Sometimes your view changes completely. Maybe you liked it at first and hated it now, or vice versa. Maybe you missed details the first time watching it. Or maybe it's just that good to watch over and over again.

Death Note and the original anime version of Full Metal Alchemist are up there for me. I've seen them both now at least 4 times.

noobgonewild - February 29, 2016, 10:22 am

If anything I have watched Tokyo Ghoul so much times just because of awesome character development.

Acel - March 9, 2016, 12:05 am

I haven't rewatched any anime really, sometimes I just look at the one piece AMV things but other than that I find it really hard watching them again as I already know what happens. The only thing I've rewatched is that 70's show and Harry potter
