Thread: Hacking Requests section should be in the Marketplace

Roytoy - March 5, 2016, 6:13 am

New members daily make threads in this section, asking people to hack all sorts of accounts for them.

One of two main things happen:

- If they're offering money, they get banned for a certain amount of time for posting outside of the marketplace.
- If they're not offering money, they get yelled at and shut down by HF members, phrases like "no one will do this for free" are often used.

I don't know, just a thought.

Looking forward to hearing your thoughts.

Thanks!

There's already the Service Requests section for paid requests and the Requests for Hacking section for free requests. I think that directing those members who place their requests in the wrong sections should just be punished or redirected to the correct section.

But the free requests section is not doing its purpose. Because no one is offering hacking services for free. It's like having a donation requests section.

If anything, the section should be removed. Either removed or moved to the marketplace section. If the requests are big in numbers, they would deserve the section in the marketplace. This is just my point of view.

I've always thought this. I feel like "hacking requests" should cost money and should be in the marketplace. Pretty much everyone in there is just like "Hack this facebook" "fuck this skype up", etc. People on here already sell tools like "facebook cracker" and other stuff of that caliber, so I feel that warrants a change, just my thoughts though.

The section is pretty LQ, probably better it stays there.

They will be "LQ skids" wherever they are, but LQ skids < LQ skids with money.

Moving it to the marketplace though will force the threads from new members out into the already dangerously LQ beginner hacking section and the cycle will continue.

The amount of people posting there would be substantially reduced by the 1 reputation requirement.

You misunderstand me, I mean the threads will start appearing in the beginner hacking section, if the free requests for hacking is moved to the marketplace.

Oh, I see. But the Beginners hacking section is a mess anyway, at least this way the mess is somewhat concentrated in one location.

There was a suggestion once to remove that section, but Omni said he was going to leave it to keep the LQ there lol.

Yeah, I guess the 5 "not in marketplace" reports I create every week just because of people offering money in that section are just my imagination.
