Thread: [\[RATE\] Thread Design for my upcoming product!](#)

Kr?nus - March 5, 2016, 1:12 pm

I ran out of ideas at the pricing section, i guess that's the bad part of this td.
Please rate X/10. CnC is also appreciated. ?

Pretty sexy! I like it, I do. What fonts did you use?

Cammy - March 5, 2016, 1:13 pm

6/10

Not ugly but too generic

Literally every thread design looks just like that, it doesn't stand out

DonD - March 5, 2016, 1:30 pm

Looks nice and simple, and yet elegant. I like it alot :)

It doesn't please me, it's boring to look at. Also, increase the price tag sizes.

But sorry, I'm not increasing ANY sizes. It's supposed to be minimalistic & elegant.

Looks good and professional! I would recommend adding a background to the description part, because it looks too contrasting from the rest of the design.

Thanks, probably a good idea, but I'm afraid it would fuck it up a bit... i want it to look simple.

way too much negative space. there is a significant difference between boring and trendy

I don't like the empty transition between the palettes, try a different shade of grey because the design gets absorbed with the HF grey.

So it'll blend a bit more with the rest of the thread design and doesn't get absorbed by HF background?

Yeah the middle part. It'll make the design more consistent.

I would think so, not only does it not get absorbed with the HF grey but it also blends better with your other palettes.

The descriptions of the cheats are dumb, but the design is fine.

Copywriter - March 5, 2016, 6:00 pm

Very clean design, I like the first one better rather than having a darker color. 10/10

Nice design, I like the 2nd one better but that's just my opinion.

AyoubbeeR - March 6, 2016, 11:19 am

Simple but nice, 8/10. Nice design mate

Illus Traitor - March 6, 2016, 4:51 pm

Looks nice over-all. It is clean and pleasing to the eye. I like the colors you used.

CoolHackerXD - March 6, 2016, 8:41 pm

First off, I would agree with Auron, the dark gray helps blend everything together a little better (gives it more of a mysterious feel). This design works as is, but it could be improved a lot. Personally, the fact that the screenshot on the laptop is very low-res kind of triggers me, but that might just be me (It kind of makes it seem like the product is going to be low-quality). And the fact that you only have a visual for one of the three functions, makes it seem like your service won't be providing much. If you wanted to, you could have 3 little designs to illustrate what each of the enabled hacks looks like... I mean, there's a lot of things you could do, but you should be fine. I would probably experiment with the laptop a bit more, to make sure the visual on the laptop transitions well with what you're trying to sell.

Calmy - March 7, 2016, 9:17 am it looks good, just use the space you got and don't rush it. Work with an idea and get that designed.

Kr?nus - March 7, 2016, 11:27 am

Thank you all for opinions and ratings. I appreciate it.

LegionRain - March 14, 2016, 3:56 pm

you can help by adding a transparent background

Very good and professional design.

You didn't include contact information, but overall the design is amazing.

Dystance - March 15, 2016, 1:43 am

The design itself looks clean. Solid job.

I guess what the dude in earlier posts was just implying that most thread designs look the same with a picture on top with an overlay/multiply object over it.

Glitchx0R - March 15, 2016, 10:50 am

Looks pretty clean and minimalistic, but you should change the screen of the laptop.

BITCOIN - March 15, 2016, 6:56 pm

Nice and clean dude I like it!
