Thread: Rep from Omniscient to be stickied?

The Pact - March 7, 2016, 5:56 am

I noticed three scam reports on a member PMing me about a possible deal, within those scam reports were other people claiming to have been scammed who had not made reports. Then someone mentioned Omniscient had minus 5ed this accused scammer.

When I went to look Omnis rep was on page 11 of this guy's rep.

Just thinking if Omni finds someone sketch enough to minus 5 them it might be a good warning about this person that might have deterred some of the people from dealing...

So my suggestion is- if it's not too much trouble maybe Omni rep could be stickied so it appears on the first page regardless of when it was given.

I can understand this, but think Omni doesn't care.

I think deal disputes and community alerts should be stickied to their profile, not Omni's rep.

That's kinda wierd.. But Omni obviously figured it was worth the rep but not a close.. So I guess as such it is I big hit dwc but at the same time was not worth closure so why should they live with it "forever" at top of rep.. I mean wasn't a rko even..

I have a neg 10 from Omni, but that's not due to me being sketchy.

It takes a few seconds to hit the "Negative" reputation on a users profile only showing the neg reps. If you care enough not to get scammed im sure you would do this. So I think thats why its not needed.

You dealing on Hackforums has nothing to do with Omniscient's opinion of someone.

Honestly I think this is a good idea, but I wouldn't expect it to happen. A good solution is that if someone has an open scam report against them that is found to be true, they should be blacklisted from the marketplace.

Omniscient can give reputation for various reason, as its reputation all reputations matter and should be considered the same. If you really want to find if a member is sketchy, you have trust scan and options to sort Positive/Negative/Neutral reputation. Please review them and make a decision.

Sticking reputations doesn't really change anything or adds anything to the forum.

I cared enough to leave the rep. But I think it's reasonable to ask members to read all negative and neutral comments left on a user before they deal with them no matter who gives them or how old they are.
