Sakuto's Feedback: Damn, that's a lot of time

Introduction

Hello, everybody, I'm Sakuto and I'm going to make a new feedback thread to let you waste your precious time with me. To start this presentation let's just make a little introduction of me? Who am I, why am I posting this feedback thread? I will answer to all the question you have ever wondered (lol).

Let's start with my short introduction, I'm Sakuto, I'm a Belgian Back-End developer specialized in C# development and my hobby is website creation in PHP. I'm also a huge fan of gym and Krav Maga, but really, who cares about me? On this forum I'm pretty much nobody, you probably don't know me and you probably don't care about me, but I'm still writing this, I'm not sure about my motivation, though... I'm a member mainly active in group subforum and in coding section, it's why you don't know me, I hate going to lounge or to the others useless sections.

I'll just make a short feedback of the section I browser, of the group I'm member of and just a little thanks to some member that I especially appreciate (they are not a lot, so...)

SectionsPHP section is my section, my baby, my loved one. The only one I really visit each day, each hour and each time I can. I love this section because I love this language and because sometimes you can find useful thread and information and you can have a great debate in it. Unfortunately, it's also a section with a lack of moderation, way too much thread are just hidden service request (sometimes they are not even hidden) and LQ post without any research. But I still love this section, because they are funny people to answer to this stupid thread, and because you've always something to do in it. It's my baby, don't touch it or I'll hurt you

Website construction is a good section too, I'm not going that much in it because all the question are just general question about HTML, I'm kind of sad to see that they are no real question about AngularJS or others real framework and used technology, but maybe it's not what Hackforums is looking for, maybe user just want their website to work and don't want to really work on it and make them efficient. Who cares, still fun to browse.

Coding and Programming: This section is strange but it's mainly composed of "Which language should I learn" questions. But you can also find algorithmic questions and interesting thing to browse, worth the time!

Coding section in general: If I had to make a general reproach to coding related section in general, it would be their lack of moderation and presence, they are a lot of service request in them, lot of topic, of the thread without research. And the most annoying part is the people who just answer the same answer as the 4 previous messages (and it happens every time, postcount again!). It something that could be greatly improved in my opinion.

Lounge: I think this section pretty useless, just here to increase your post count in my opinion, people are, not really trying to talk to each others, just spam posting and answering shit to the OP without even fully reading it or reading the answer, just a place to get an high postcount or waste your time. Nothing more to say.

GroupsBrotherhood: Huge vouch for my group, thus is very funny to be in and members are HQ. You always have something to do with them, you can laugh, you can cry and sometime have serious discussions with them about everything, one of the best group I had the chance to be in.

Specialists was a special group for me, the first group I ever joined on Hackforums, and one of the best I had the chance to be in. It was probably the best one a few weeks ago, unfortunately they have recruited a dumb leader (me) who have do nothing to preserve the activity of the group, and now the owner of the group is Grim and I'm waiting to see what will happens to the group. At this moment I must say that I'm disappointed by the lack of communication around the recruitment and the new rules. Let's see!

Legends: Good group, did not really stay in. But it was a good time :)

Users

To start, I'll not do like everybody else and make shoutout for staff member, I don't know them and I don't think that they are really interested in it. Omni you are answering to PM, that's good from you, shoutout done. Remix: Remix is now my boyfriend and I love him so much, you can't deny it. <3

Wardow: Sup negro, bien ou quoi?

Mr Kewl: YOU DA LAW, AND LET THIS PIG ALIVE YOU BASTARD

Active member in PHP: You're the real heroes of this board, I love you too <3 ASDA, Alex, MineSQL, AppleJews

Thanks for reading, I hope that you enjoyed a bit my feedback, have a nice day, I love you.
