

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Looking for a logo of a rabbit for a construction company.

Keelo - March 8, 2016, 9:59 pm

Hello everyone. My father and I are wanting to expand our construction business, and we decided to start with a great logo. The business is called Hare Construction, because our last names are Hare, and so a rabbit, or hare, we would like as our image.

I'm not the greatest at all at drawing, but this picture will provide a great majority of what we are looking for. I will also add in specific details at the bottom to help clarify any confusion.

[IMG]http://img4.imagetitan.com/img4/small/13/13_harelogo.jpg[/IMG]
Click here, or on the picture itself for a bigger picture.

1. We would like the hare to be leaning on a hammer with one arm, and throwing up the "OK" sign with the opposite hand. Not like mine, more like the emoticon. Palm facing out. Click here for example

2. Over all straps

3. Tool belt with various tools; screwdriver, pliers, etc. The downside to this part is that we don't want him to have a hammer in the tool belt because he'd be leaning on one.

4. A smirk or grin.

5. Muscular to a certain degree. You can see in the arms i just made them big. Just bulk, not a body building hare, lol.

6. Maybe one ear kind of floppping down, or both straight up. Not a huge issue.

Obviously I don't know how to draw a rabbit face lol, looks like a dog nose, but I hope anybody that would be interested in this activity knows that isn't how you do a rabbit face.

We want to first place these on T-shirts, then continue on to bumper and window stickers, business cards, website, and other advertisement options. Who knows maybe even a fully painted vehicle to drive. ?

Just comment any questions, and I really, gratefully, appreciate anybody's help and contribution. Also if you know a thing or two about construction, or have any idea that will make it look more of a mascot type of logo rather than words with an image or design, I would gladly listen to all comments.

Thank you!

Morty - March 8, 2016, 10:08 pm

(Mar 8, 2016 10:59 PM)Keelo Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Hello everyone. My father and I are wanting to expand our construction business, and we decided to start with a great logo. The business is called Hare Construction, because our last names are Hare, and so a rabbit, or hare, we would like as our image.

I'm not the greatest at all at drawing, but this picture will provide a great majority of what we are looking for. I will also add in specific details at the bottom to help clarify any confusion.

[IMG]http://img4.imagetitan.com/img4/small/13/13_harelogo.jpg[/IMG]
Click here, or on the picture itself for a bigger picture.

1. We would like the hare to be leaning on a hammer with one arm, and throwing up the "OK" sign with the opposite hand. Not like mine, more like the emoticon. Palm facing out. Click here for example

2. Over all straps

3. Tool belt with various tools; screwdriver, pliers, etc. The downside to this part is that we don't want him to have a hammer in the tool belt because he'd be leaning on one.

4. A smirk or grin.

5. Muscular to a certain degree. You can see in the arms i just made them big. Just bulk, not a body building hare, lol.

6. Maybe one ear kind of flopping down, or both straight up. Not a huge issue.

Obviously I don't know how to draw a rabbit face lol, looks like a dog nose, but I hope anybody that would be interested in this activity knows that isn't how you do a rabbit face.

We want to first place these on T-shirts, then continue on to bumper and window stickers, business cards, website, and other advertisement options. Who knows maybe even a fully painted vehicle to drive. ?

Just comment any questions, and I really, gratefully, appreciate anybody's help and contribution. Also if you know a thing or two about construction, or have any idea that will make it look more of a mascot type of logo rather than words with an image or design, I would gladly listen to all comments.

Thank you!

mate that is a 10/10 primo rabbit you got there. I believe there was someone also offering free GFX. Maybe get them to give it a go :D

syrah's bitch - March 10, 2016, 3:37 am

I didn't read all of your text because it was wordy and I'm not into ready but this is my idea

A Hare leaning on the text "CONSTRUCTION" construction made with a obviously concrete texture and has iron bars showing for the concrete support. The hare is wearing a yellow safety hat and a orange safety vest holding a sledge hammer over his shoulder

Kenny Schrub™ - March 11, 2016, 6:29 am

Hello i can work on it . let me know if you still need it