Thread: Just an addon/tweak

Hey so I looked for this suggestion but I could not see it.

Here is something that I think would be a nice feature to have. It isnt gonna change the forum game and such. But I was wondering if maybe we add the (online/offline) feature to the pm box. that way you can see if the person your messaging is online at that moment or if somebody wont reply to you right away. If thats the case I would love to totally see this feature added.

I dont mind criticism, so if you think there could be something else that could be changed I dont see why not add this feature.

There's an online/offline icon next to a person's name.

Use these tools.

exactly, but instead of browsing to that persons profile, why not have the [online/offline] icon next to the persons alias in the PM Box

You'll get the same reply related to the notification about a thread reply or something.

It won't happen.

I don't mean to be mean.

This seems useless considering others have pointed out the Online/Offline next to a username AND in the profile. Don't be lazy and just go look at the profile first.

This feature is a waste in my opinion, maybe if it took like 2-5 lines to code this then I would say why not.

Sorry, won't be adding this.
