Discord is fine... If you enjoy have your chats monitored and logged by a centralized server. I especially enjoy having anything I say available to read by people I don't know.

Really though, I use discord for gaming, it's good for that. But any convo regarding security, privacy, tech, malware, etc I want to have on my own terms, not someone else's.

If Discord would just build a lightweight IRC system for their app. It's already mostly there and I'd be surprised if they weren't using IRC behind their chat services anyway. Just let users connect to custom IRC servers/channels, too.

Have you ever been hated or discriminated against?
I have; I've been protested and demonstrated against
Picket signs for my wicked rhymes, look at the times
Sick as the mind of the motherfuckin' kid that's behind
All this commotion, emotions run deep as oceans
Explodin', tempers flaring from parents
Just blow 'em off and keep goin'
Not taking nothing from no one
Give 'em hell long as I'm breathin'
Keep kicking ass in the morning
And taking names in the evenin'
Leave 'em with the taste as sour as vinegar in they mouth
See, they can trigger me, but they'll never figure me out
Look at me now! I bet you're probably sick of me now

It's been a rollercoaster of emotions all day.
Seems like something been hitting the server all day, it's dropped connections randomly and has prevented some from connecting at all.
I'm going to give Orgy of a VPS of mine to add as a leaf, and hopefully he gains a few more for redundancy.

There's about 10 of us idling at any given time. Some people pop in and out. Remember that a lot of us just keep it running and check it occassionally to see if anyones talking. We tend to use it more like a message leaving service until multiple of us are chatting at the same time.

You post a message and just leave it open for a bit. Someone will reply.

Right now there's a few users active in it
