Thread: Loving

Omniscient - March 15, 2016, 1:00 am

I am pretty drunk right now.

I want to say how much I love this site and how much I love and appreciate everyone. Even those who are a total pain in my ass I know you mean well. I can be moody and bit unpredictable but I think that's what it takes to run a site like this.

Yes, I can type well even when three sheets to the wind (thank you delete key).

I'm not sure the community knows how much this place means to me. How much dedication I have and how no matter what I do everything I can to improve this site and keep it running.

So I really want you all to know that I care. I care a lot. I care very much. And through good times and bad this community at this point in my life means almost everything to me. This is the place I've built and for nearly ten years have made it my life.

HF is a wonderful experience and I am never ever bored. Sure, it can be tiresome and very stressful but it can also be very rewarding. Especially knowing that what I have built has affected so many lives. One of the best parts of my day is when I read a PM about how this site has changed and improved someones life. So I think I make it clear to the community that this place has changed and improved my life.

Thank you very much.

Thanks Omni. You're quite daunting at times but that's what's usually required to run a site as such and keel the skids in check.

What a time to come online! ?

I hope you enjoy the booze. ?

Indeed, this Forum and most of the community are simply great, I enjoy comming back here every day.

Lets hope it will last a long time! ?

Thanks for creating such a wonderful place. <3

Cheers Omni! Having a shot of crown royal in honor of this post.

The forums have been doing well, a lot less drama has actually taken place than recent years. I anticipate seeing more improvements in both member quality and the administration.

We all get stressed and it's no doubt a heavy weight on your back to manage HF on the daily, no worries on that front.

Hope you're having a solid night buddy, thanks for always being timely and helpful the few times I've reached out to you.

Seasonal - March 15, 2016, 1:20 am

Thank you for taking the time to keep this site running, I know me and many other users are grateful this site exists. Let's face it, what else would we honestly do with our lives :P

This place is like my second home, well my online home. Of course, there are little kids running thinking they know more than someone else and that they can never be wrong but for the most part it's a great site and great place to hang.

Microsoft Agent #3180 - March 15, 2016, 1:20 am

I love you drunk omni.

This is one of the only forums I have appreciated and valued my time on. I've learned many different things about various topics from computers, to video games, hell even got automotive and legal help from members. Bought and sold physical and digital items. Made great friends that I play xbox with.

Even after I have been scammed a couple times on here I think the pros definitely outweigh the cons.

Thanks for making HF and keeping it great.

You put a lot of work in this site and while you can have mood swings you're reliable. Hope to see this forum going for some more time as I'm really beginning to enjoy Innuendo and the groups I'm in right now.

If that whisky isn't some premium Tennessee whiskey you're gonna have to ban me though.

Dragnite - March 15, 2016, 1:42 am

Well it definitely would take it out of a person to run this place and be all over everything so hats off to you for all of that. I stand by my decision of sticking around, this place really is a good one to be.

"I want to say how much I love this site and how much I love and appreciate everyone. Even those who are a total pain in my ass I know you mean well. I can be moody and bit unpredictable but I think that's what it takes to run a site like this." And we love and appreciate you as well. You do a good job and that's what matters. People can get butthurt over your decisions and take shit personally but you do what you can and do what you must to keep this place going whether people like it or not.

^has a point, don't hate on most whiskey. Hating on jäger or fireball is completely acceptable though, since both are shit. I mostly drink vodka so I don't have a favorite for either whiskey or rum.

Something along these lines?

All jokes aside, I love Hackforums - I guess the only times we really see how much effort goes into the place is when something goes wrong and we are wanting to come online.

I was fine last night on just the whisky. Then I had some beer and it went sideways on me. At least I didn't black out or get sick. Small hangover that some coffee will deal with. A little shaky so I was probably just one or two beers away from having my head in the toilet.

I was drowning my sorrows over my rather jacked up knee. It's swollen like crazy and I have procedures coming up to finally figure out exactly what's wrong. But it's not looking very good. Hurting like hell and I can barely walk.

You guys are lucky I didn't Tynychat with ya'll last night. I was looking too. Does anyone use Tynychat anymore?

Quote:u gonna regret this shit in the morning

Nah, I wasn't too gushy. Was just feeling the love last night. I'm one of those guys that the more I drink the more I love life. Absolutely opposite of an angry drunk. I never say bad things while under the influence. I tend to tell people around me how much I care about them. Eww...feelings!

Does anyone remember years and years ago I was in a video chat (tynychat?) and I started to drink heavy and by the end of it I was vomiting like a madman. Someone recorded it. And sure it was embarrassing but I recognize how funny it must look too.

I was drowning my sorrows over my rather jacked up knee. It's swollen like crazy and I have procedures coming up to finally figure out exactly what's wrong. But it's not looking very good. Hurting like hell and I can barely walk.

Have you decided if you are going to do the surgeries yet?

I'm on there very rarely. I check from time to time and I mostly see around 9 users online. Sucks to hear about your knee though. I know it feels like shit not being in control of things like that.

Damn, I hope you get well soon. And you should drink more often if that makes you love life!

So for me to get you to make me a mod I'd need to get you shit faced drunk before hand?

I can do that.

Nah, Tinchat is rather dead at the moment.

There was one room for the past half year that had a solid 20+ people hanging out at all times, but sadly that is no longer the case.

I often check it out and you'd be lucky to see 2 (or even 3) people in there.

None on cam either. Shame really.

Kind of have to agree with the kind of drunk you are, as I am kind of the same.

I also tend to love life more when drunk, however I already insanely love life so you can guess how I am when under the influence ?

Thanks for taking the time to have created the OP, Omni.

Shows the rest of the forum that you are a good guy after all.
