Op does anime reviews for a living check it out.

Rick Sanchez - March 25, 2016, 8:09 am

I read your review of no game no life...might watch that now sounds kinda like SAO.

NGNL can't be compared to SAO as one involves RPG aspects and the other doesn't.

NGNL is about 2 characters who hate the real world so they leave and join another world that involves all types of games.

Yes it's a world where everything is controlled by games. Card games, etc any game goes.

I hope it's the prequel since the prequel manga was just amazing.

Prequel manga? I haven't heard of it, guess I should check it out!

Personally I have been reading Mahouka's light novels, at Ch17 now, roughly 10 chapters ahead of the anime! ?

The prequel is about when miyuki didn't really associate with tatsuya etc.

<http://karmareviews.blogspot.co.uk/> Website has a good layout/format; although need to start watching or reviewing more series or a varied assortment. As the reviews aren't super in depth (which i'm not hating on you for, as personally i could never make like a 10 page review like some sites do), i just suggest since the amount you put on each review, try to add more reviews as it won't take you too long to do so.

Possibly add reviews of more lesser known shows, if you have watched any; as it will help more people come to know of them. Some rarely watched shows can be really good , such as a show i enjoyed called salaryman kintaro.

Thanks for the reply, I always hated long reviews so try keep them short, I was doing a review a day however due to a holiday I am having some chill out time, I try getting all mainstream reviews out the way.

Lovely site baby cakes <3 ;) Anyway how's the site hits doing?

SkullCandy - April 8, 2016, 8:19 am

I have a suggestion - I love your UI but I mean it needs some work. You have really found a niche in the market and I feel like this could become really popular. MyAnimeList is like the imdb of Anime and it has everything you could ever want.....except for a nice and sleek UI.

<https://hummingbird.me> has a really nice UI but not the features that MyAnimeList has - I feel like you are on the right track to combining these both together. Get some graphics work done for your blog and sort out the UI a little better, add some features that your viewers might like such as accounts, top anime lists by rating and a nice search feature; maybe even a personal anime list and user reviews as well. I feel like this could evolve into something great - kinda like IMDB with trailers and everything.

If you need any graphics then HMU - I do it for free if I believe in your project :P

Thanks for all the suggestions, only know basic html atm, will be buying a domain when I get a job, no idea how I would go about accounts and things, thanks for offer no idea what to do with gfx yet was thinking adding a background or something.

Was trying to think of features but idk what to add thanks :P

thanks :P Yeah, a nice little logo would go a long way I guess - a background might be nice too - something light and peaceful in to go there. Make it a little transparent so it doesn't deter too much from the website itself :)

Yeah I was going to get a logo but then didn't go with background, but then I could not find a good background to match other things, and I wouldn't know how to make transparent xD
