TheBonfiggy - March 25, 2016, 11:05 am

Hey guys just wanted to file a scam report for the user PROXY-_-

<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=2134991>

He bought two stat YouTube accounts from me for $1350 and disputed both transactions after stealing the accounts from me. DWC!

PROOF:

TheChi?f - March 25, 2016, 11:08 am

You should add some proof of conversations, the disputes and other stuff. Look at some deal disputes in the section to get an idea of it.

Saitama - March 25, 2016, 11:09 am

Any proofs to be shown of the deal ?

It was supposedly sent as a gift.. guess I should of checked that, just didn't know how. I don't understand why people have to be so immature and can't just do legit business it is sad.

I filed a report to regain access to both accounts.. should have them back soon

Sapio - March 25, 2016, 7:09 pm

In one of his most recent reps it says he charged back $10, and yet you accept $1350...

Egregious Jr. - March 26, 2016, 5:25 am

Maybe you can win the chargeback, I've heard it's not as hard as people say.

PayPal generally always sides with the buyer.

(Mar 26, 2016 05:40 AM)?Lie Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) PayPal generally always sides with the buyer. Not always true. It's really all luck. From what I've heard, someone said the same thing to paypal for two disputes, he lost one and won one. It's a messed up system, it's based on luck and who is dealing with the dispute.

DarindAAAA - March 26, 2016, 6:05 am

Good luck recovering it , but paypal sucks in these types of cases.

TheBonfiggy - March 26, 2016, 10:01 am

Never do more than a $1,000 deal on HF. Got scammed $250 by a Writer that donated $2,000+ to the website and had been here for years. Nobody except Regulus, Axis, Greivous and Factor8 / Omni can be trusted.

There are some more members that can be trusted, but you are absolutely right.

Always, ALWAYS use a middleman for these kind of things, and if something seems to good to be true, it probably is.

Also it's Grievous, not Greivous :P

Gotta agree with this. However even with PayPal, he could of still charged back on the middle man (if the middleman held the PayPal funds) thus holding the same problem. PayPal's always an issue. I would never deal over $200 without BTC. ?

WhoDis - March 26, 2016, 10:23 am

Legit report, however you shouldn't have used PayPal for this deal.

Glad I didn't sell him my verified Twitter.

Glad I didn't sell him my verified Twitter. Yeah I thought he sent it as a gift idk I guess I am just a little too trusting. I am working on recovering the accounts, willing to pay if someone can help me with this if you have experience, please pm me thanks! From now on I will only use btc

Mr. Supreme - March 26, 2016, 10:31 am you have a good chance, he said that his cc was stolen, but in the dispute, he said goods wasn't received, so you have a better chance when it comes to goods not being delivered than unauthorized transaction. So call up paypal and explain right now jujuger - March 26, 2016, 10:34 am

OP, tell paypal that the buyer bought an "intangible good" and that paypal's policy does not cover the buyer when intangible goods are purchased.

The person who scammed you is a multi. The email you supplied is his girlfriends.

Like the screenshots show his name is mike he used his girlfriends paypal, his own personal paypal includes his own name.

His second account is ub3r on this forums. Have a lot of proof too.
