Thread: Someone to do some College Math Modules

Panic? - March 26, 2016, 12:05 am

I'm currently going to school online and feeling REALLY lazy, I have four math modules to do left and they're time consuming but VERY easy.

I don't feel like taking the time to do it

The website they're on is "Learning path" the class is MATH103 (College algebra).

Tell me how much per module. I have like 4 weeks left to finish the modules but I'd prefer it done a little faster than that. Also you don't have to do them all, just offer me your service per module and we'll talk.

Passed this course in college with ease.

How long would you say each module is?

Freerunning - March 26, 2016, 8:19 am

I'm interested if you check my homework services we already finished an algebra course. I would like to know the details and scope of the module. Thanks!

I'll do it $10 cheaper than what Freerunning offers.

With a guaranteed 80%+ grade or your money back.

o_o hopefully that peaks your interest lol.

It's very easy College Algebra I modules, I don't need a 100%, an 80% will give me a 100. I don't get graded on the percentage I get graded on if they're complete and passing (80% or higher). Only two modules left to do, a single module will take you about an hour and a half. The math is easy, it's just a lot of tedious stuff like watching videos etc.

Still looking..

It's not hard but nobody has confirmed. Somebody did the first two modules so theres only two left.

Still looking for someone to do the last two modules. They're not hard just time consuming.
