Thread: Best HTTP - C++ Herding Botnet

Spooky01 - March 26, 2016, 9:52 am

Hi. What is the best http herding botnet made in c++ available right now? I want something with the option to deactivate av/firewall and to be stable (keep the bots available for a long time).

rezzex - March 26, 2016, 9:58 am

BetaBot, it disabling AVs like no one else.

If you want whitehat software you better go with Spectral

rezzex - March 26, 2016, 10:06 am

Wouldnt suggest you any HF Net, they are all shit. And Spectral hasnt even a Botkiller/Proactive.

Spooky01 - March 26, 2016, 10:31 am

Is betabot still a thing ? I thought you can only find cracked versions of it that dont work well also it is not updated anymore... I just want something very stable that will keep the bots alive. I have high budget for this project of mine.

rezzex - March 26, 2016, 10:32 am

BetaBot is still alive and currently in Version 1.8.0.11 costing 800$.

You can find it on exploit.in via nightcrawler.

Go with BB.

Its one of a kind and still remains undefeated.

Not comparing Spectral to other software but dridex and carberp and others did not have a botkiller (least from what I know).

Insidious's killer just removes software besides itself from startup, yeah ok that could work but if it tried to do that with spectral it wouldn't work.

If you want a botkiller give me a list of the bots you want it to kill.

Young Sosa - March 26, 2016, 10:42 am

Betabot is the best http botnet for me, very stable

Dridex and Caberp were Banking Trojans and they dont need to kill other Bots, because the Owners just wanted to know the Credentials of the Bank. Also Dridex is based on Zeus, as far as i know, and Zeus had Proactive.

If you want to hold Bots like with your Botnet you need pretty good Persistence, and Proactive.

He has a big dick

Enough persistence

To be serious it's really persistent

Spooky01 - March 26, 2016, 11:09 am

It is pretty hard to reach nightcrawler he answers very hard

AndreaEbbasta - March 26, 2016, 1:36 pm

Medusa BotNet or Sieren Bot ?

rezzex - March 26, 2016, 1:39 pm

Both are for DDoS and not for Herding.

BetaBot isn't stable on big networks ,Carberp had a AV Killer module since it was running ring 0 , Cland HTTP was being sold here it had the best botkiller it's a separate module you load and it removes Autorun keys,removes config files ,delete files and some other methods It's good really good unfortunelty it's not being sold here anymore .

SAVIOR - March 26, 2016, 5:02 pm

I would use betabot, it has great features, and in my opinion it is really stable ?

Meechy Darko - March 26, 2016, 7:39 pm

There's the paid ones of course, but the best free one as far as I know is UmbraLoader, it's quite old though.

Spooky01 - March 27, 2016, 5:11 am

I dont mind paying for one i just want quality. Im not interested into botkilling but av/firewall etc killing so it can stay undetected.

rezzex - March 27, 2016, 5:39 am

I still would recommend you Beta for this. I think their is no other Botnet thats capable atm under 1k$. (at least not on the Forums i am.)

Gazavat, Carberp, BB, Godzilla, H1N1, Neutrino, Andromeda, etc

Best bots (bootkit bots) look gazavat, carberp, gozi

Barokas - April 19, 2016, 12:13 am

Betabot. If you want to keep bots.
