

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: A pastebin with free speech

pastenib - March 26, 2016, 4:15 pm

If you paste something even slightly controversial on one of the main Pastebins out there, you'll notice it gets removed pretty quickly, especially if someone complains.

That's just one of the reasons why I made pastenib.com - Pastes will never be deleted unless there's a legal obligation to do so (eg, if it's illegal and we're about to get sued for it).. We won't take it down just because someone's unhappy with it.

It also has HTTPS by default, unlimited paste sizes, and zero tracking/ads (which also means no 3rd party resources on any page).. I don't think there's any other pastebins out there which can say that.

It's meant to be fast-loading and simple to use which is why there's very little on each page, we don't need a bunch of ads and graphics; pastenib is about your text, and everything else is irrelevant.

Basically, this is the pastebin that isn't a dick. You won't get hit with a captcha just because your paste contains 'http' somewhere (no captchas at all, in fact), and you don't have to pay to upload more than 500kb. Just paste and share and we'll handle the rest.

Give it a try at pastenib.com

I'll be adding extra security features in the future (ASAP); end-to-end encryption is the main focus for now. That requires quite a bit of Javascript so it'll be on a separate page rather than slowing down the currently fast homepage.