

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: A thought, since almost everyone's main aim on here is money.

Zenfex - March 28, 2016, 6:34 pm

After spending a day or two browsing, it has come to my attention that almost everyone's goal on this forum is to make money and it appears that there only seems to be a few who are succeeding...

Well, here's the dark and honest truth for those who haven't yet achieved their financial goals or aren't on their way to doing so... You haven't earned the time to be even asking how to make money... You haven't earned the time to be browsing all the bullshit PDF files that are on display here; you are making a terrible investment of your time and would get a much bigger return by investing the time into turning up to an interview for a minimum wage job.

Wondering what to do instead? That's for you to work out and not me.

OnTheFly - March 28, 2016, 6:48 pm

Welcome to HF.

90% of the community is 13 year olds that are too young to work, which is why they come on a hacking forum trying to make money.

You do make a good point though. So many other resources to become successful.

Zenfex - March 28, 2016, 7:22 pm

(Mar 28, 2016 06:48 PM)OnTheFly Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Welcome to HF.

90% of the community is 13 year olds that are too young to work, which is why they come on a hacking forum trying to make money.

You do make a good point though. So many other resources to become successful.

Well, I'm not necessarily suggesting that they work for someone, but a lot of people need to realise that in order to learn how to make money online, you have to first make it. If that doesn't make sense to you, then what I basically mean is you have to experiment and succeed in order to learn.