Thread: Awards Page Styling

Darkwin - March 30, 2016, 9:32 am

I'm making this suggestion because i've noticed how with the recent addition of new awards the myawards.php page has gotten sort of long to scroll through, I think it would be nice if instead of having the award in list-form as we have them now; maybe we can have like a 12x12 grid-box with all of the awards inside and an tool-tip that appears with details about each award when hovered over?

Just think it would look neater imho, Anyways thanks for reading.

Nice suggestion, the award page is indeed quite long and will only continue to grow with the current layout.

I really like your idea op hopefully omni takes it into consideration

It's a nice idea but it doesn't go with the current theme I think. Plus you need to wait for the tooltip to spawn unless it's similar to the IP disclaimer on trust scan.

This will probably get closed for being a layout suggestion anyway.

I think it'd be hard to make it go with the current theme. Would be nice to get something as suggested but just the same as our current theme.

Ah, I agree should've thought about that before making the thread.

My bad.

It is a layout suggestion, but it's actually a really good one.

I would really like to see this implemented.

Layout changes aren't worth working on until we're 1.8x. I'm trying to figure out when I have 2-3 weeks absolutely free to start the work. Took me a year to get us onto a new server. :(
