You'll never see this kind of stuff at a Bernie rally!

She shoved someone apparently. Don't see anything wrong with it.

In a crowd people tend to be shoved or pushed, I do not know the situation but that is very common in big crowds. It's on my belief she did not forcibly push someone out the way but instead was trying to get past them. But that may or may not be the case.

She didn't deserved to be called a "N word" lover, that was definitely promoted by Donald Trump's terribly negative rhetoric.

Words are words.

If she didn't deserve that, she at least deserved to be called a bitch lol.

These words represent the feelings of all these trump supporters. It represents the mindset of people who support him. Despite her actions or how much of a bitch she may of been, you do not assault protestors even if they assault you because that makes your cause look bad. Besides that common sense fact, Trump supporters are well known for being confused or ignorant about Government and having a profound sense of hostility and anger towards anyone who disagrees with them.

You can attempt to make feeble arguments all you want, but this bitch did not deserve to be assaulted even if she assaulted other people. At most she should of been restrained then arrested, no need to spray pepper spray in a crowd like that, nor was there any need to lash out at her the way they did with racist remarks of all things. Anger does not justify misguided principles or poor judgement.

Funny, the "n word lover" got edited into the video.

Liberals are all about their entitlements except when they're entitled to repercussions for their actions.

I don't understand why liberals (especially those who can't even vote) go to these places to protest.

Would a white person go to a black rally protesting black people?

Liberal protests Conservative at a Conservative gathering and gets punished = Hero, victim, brave
Conservative protests Liberal at a Liberal gathering and gets punished = villain, racist, coward

I like how liberals have all of these double standards. They lecture people regarding the issue of using blanket statements to describe groups of people constantly, and then make blanket statements like the one above. "This represents the viewpoint of ALL TRUMP SUPPORTERS".

Just after reading that statement, you can infer that this guy is a complete inbred and disregard his argument in it's entirety. Move along people.

But still they could have just called her a bitch, no need for the "N" word.

DjHaxorz - March 30, 2016, 7:11 pm

The problem is these liberals preach tolerance and how everything should be accepted yet they go out of their way to protest candidates, block highways, and disrupt rallies for their own personal motives. When these people come here with the BLM signs to these rallies they're looking for trouble, not going about it peacefully. The whole movements ass-backwards in the first place. How about we first address blacks killing other blacks before we start the other argument about police vs. blacks.

Trump is the ONLY president since before Bush Jr. that pushes the american people to take pride in their Country, while I don't necessarily condone violence, but I think it's a sign that real pride is there.

Tell me, would you punch someone smacking your girlfriends ass? Or would you just let her be disrespected like that? It should be the same way for the president, if someone disrespects him especially in a place that's suppose to be dedicated to him, if you don't want to punch that guy/girl you have absolutely zero pride or respect for them.

dude. lol this actually turned humorist. (because its hypocritical of him generalizing immigrants)

Making baseless claims is the essence of the trump foundation. Trump makes anecdotal claims all the time so It's not surprising his supporters(not sayign you are) are argumentatively illiterate. ? she deserved it but the guy who pepper sprayed the Vet was in the wrong (Because she didn't even really get hit), and the guy who called her a migger lover was also wrong.

Also let's not forget at least 3 accounts of supporters being violent without being provoked, even on fellow supporters they thought were a protestor apparently...

dumb liberal individual goes to a conservative rally to protest conservatives. she then assaults a conservative at a conservative rally, and then gets assaulted by a conservative individual.

so these 2-3 people really make you generalize millions of people? what if somebody decked you in the face, chun, at a liberal rally? would i get decked back? i hope not, because apparently me being just myself, can easily taint the outlook of your entire party.

The entire audience makes me generalize hundreds of thousands of people this way. If someone punched me at any rally I would sue them, I would make someone witnessed it and I would press charges, I wouldn't ignorantly attack let alone use a weapon in a crowded place. I would fucking use the god damn system I invented, I'll just say this based off nothing more than your post, You like trump because he speaks ignorantly/politically incorrect. He doesn't specify things but rather says face valued statements that appeal to your inner sense of moral values. It clicks with you when he says things like let's mass deport mexicans or ban muslims. You are politically illiterate, you know absolutely nothing of how people work nor our common understanding of ethical action. You got no fucking clue how far we've really came since the 1970s do you?

This is in no way shape or form bias news. The site used for this news reference collects data from social networks to get a sense of real time knowledge about world events. This was simply what happen, an idiot touched some fat feminist and she punched him then got pepper sprayed (didn't get hurt or burned, but the vet behind her did) and supporters were shouting out racist remarks afterwards. That's the facts of this situation, you cannot claim this is bias in anyway shape or form as the whole situation is published right here, there is also a video of saying that was her fault but that just further proves she didn't get completely pepper sprayed, she was shook by the situation (and as a sanders supporter probably) she admitted to her wrong doing after the immediate hype and went away. The supporters continued to harass her afterwards, you cannot justify grown men acting like High School children. At any presidential rally with intellectuals they don't do this kind of crap. Only trump rallies gather the hicks with this level of stupidity.

I'm not even sure what point you're trying to make, but I'm definitely both conservative and liberal. If you place your self either way you're probably retarded imo.

How? There has been completely peaceful protestors like the little mexican girl who even picked up a supporter's sign that fell when she was being escorted (this was on vice). While, trump was talking about violence and how he wishes he could punch them in the mouth.

His supporters have assaulted a black man as he was leaving without any warning and right in front of a cop too that did nothing. (he was punched in the face walking up the steps and did nothing back, he was trying to be escorted out but was being physically assaulted on the way out) this isn't even the video I was talking about, this is entirely new to me but it too is proof of the Supporters overstepping their boundaries by physically assaulting protestors.

Think about it, didn't we do this same exact kind of thing during the civil rights movement? When police would spray black protestors with fire hydrants to restrict their constitutional rights.

Edit: I understand you may be upset by illegal immigration since you're here legally, but you are literally unwilling to open your eyes to the truth about donald trump because it's against your personal beliefs. I don't see how trump supporters can ignorantly make false claims and unsound arguments then walk away feeling "oh yeah i layed into that Bernie birdie"

That video is cropped as hell. That happened in the Louisville rally in Kentucky and I was there, since I live in Kentucky. She was being outrageously disruptive and shoved a senior citizen to the ground. There's another video on youtube where you can see her on that split second shove a senior citizen to the ground and then getting grabbed on by people to escort her out.

Let's not forget it was a private event, so she wasn't allowed in, in the first place.
I just felt like quickly commenting on that. I'll be responding to your other statements as well.

The other point of view even shows multiple black teens in the crowd, dressing like most in poverty usually do. They weren't being disruptive so they weren't kicked out, simple.

Here is the original video I was referencing. Also I believe this is the same guy who was caught afterwading saying something along the lines of "we should kill them".

Oh and let's not forget Trump disallows any press from video taping this kinds of incidences, it's happen a ton more times than we have video proof of. I guess trump really can shoot someone and people will still vote for him.

And he was arrested. Everything you're saying doesn't disprove the fact that most of the violence is started by protestors and a simple google search will turn up multiple sources.

You think that by showing these videos, you're somehow proving that all supporters are violent. Tell me, when has a Trump supporter shown up at other rallies to violently disrupt? In fact, people are starting to open their eyes enough that even bikers are starting to help the police contain the violence that protestors bring to his rallies/events.

Of course if there was no protestors, there would be no violence. Protesting is a direct demonstration of disagreeing with something. In the united states we promote critical arguments. It is called the freedom of assembly, you can gather in any group and have whatever discussions you want. It is because of the freedom of assembly and freedom of speech that Protestors are allowed to gather at Trump rallies and say whatever they want. You are using this as a justification for why people are violent towards them. You've obviously never been to court before.

"He's shouting at me so im provoked to commit violence and its justified"

I see ur logic.

Most of this violence happens inside the rallies. A private event in which they're NOT ALLOWED IN. Don't you see it? They protest inside, they get kicked out. If they resist and end up committing violence, people can defend themselves.

What happened in Chicago? Police officers and supporters were attacked viciously by these liberal zombies.

They were attacked for the same reason trump supporters attack protestors(which is much more severe because a large group of people collaborating on ideologies revolving around violence is a potential disaster waiting to happen, thus why News reporters are given 90min hostile environment training courses before going to trump rallies). They disagreed with each other so they resort to violence. On both parts this is a dismissal of sound arguments, and it doesn't matter if it's a private event or not, you fail to realize they are allowed in if they are by all means given permission to enter. They by all means have the right to shout as loudly as they want as long as they aren't committing violence, no legal actions can be taken towards them in that situation.

You actually have no argument here, all you are stating is unsupported claims like they become violent when asked to leave. What sense does that make? Also I have video proof that protestors do leave peacefully but are attacked on their way out.

Why are you so hard set on supporting trump that you'd make your self out to be an idiot with endless fallacies? You don't see my logic, I doubt you even understood the point of my previous post. You need to surround your self around more intellectuals obviously.

Okay, so you're eating at a private dinner and some person comes out and starts shouting and disrupting about vegan is the way to go, you're not going to want them kicked out? Inb4 u say "nope i would debate with him"

"We're not talking about dinner we're talking about the commander in chief of the strongest military force in human history."

If you are running for presidency, did you not know it is common to be put in theory as president? If you really could not grasp the point being made in that sentence, it is he's a candidate for presidency, when we are talking about someone who could become president it is just common sense to place him in that position to make a point or ask a question about it. In this specific case it was since he could be the president, being hostile and having violent rhetoric is unacceptable. What he says is going to be heard by everyone in the world, you have to choose your words wisely or else they can have dire consequences as trump already knows, but doesn't understand.

Let alone you don't want riots or violent protestors/supporters at speeches outside the whitehouse, that's just not a good image.

All that is pointless unless you can actually prove he's hostile you know...

Imagine if we could make statements with no proof, and millions of people would believe it... Wait, that's happening right now.. Take it this way, I'll rather have him than a lying murderer or a socialist that could probably destroy the economy. In the state we're living in now, his tone should be the last of our worries.

Abusive cops are terrible but there is a lot of reasons why cops are abusive or corrupt, which most aren't. It's because they get paid to arrest people, they're chief tells them to make arrests on minorities and poor people who are most vulnerable to crime. We need to create a better system for police, because the current one is just as corrupt as the entire criminal system, even more corrupt than bail bounds.
