Hi,

Wow I saw what Yahoo is trying to develop and I was like.. HELL YEAH we have to have this.

Yahoo is going to develop a new VR device which you can watch videos with in 360 degrees.. But one more thing.. You will have SNOOP DOGG with you the whole TIME!

This video is pretty much self explanatory.

I have a question.. if there's a 360 video, how do you know which angle you should be looking at? what if you watch a video and you look at a screen and 180 degrees behind (like just watching behind yourself) there's someone wanking? or anything like that.

Great technology with these 360 videos, but has anyone thought about it this way?

It's just YouTube's April Fools prank.
