Roger Waters - April 1, 2016, 8:21 am

Hack Forums Members,

I'd like to thank you in joining me today as I announce my candidacy for Hack Forums administrator. The time has come where Omniscient has become too old and fragile for this site. I have many plans for this site and as future owner, we will make Hack Forums Great Again!

We have a serious problem with radical multi accountism, a tremendous problem. We can't be the stupid site anymore. We need to deport the newbies... temporarily.

It's like a trojan horse. We let all these guys come in from all of these different countries and it's unbelievable. We have no firewall, we have no control. Multis are flooding HF. We need to build a firewall and it needs to be built quickly.

The greatest builder is me.

And in that wall, we're gonna have a beautiful big fat door, for people to join this site, but only those who want to join here legally.

We need an admin of this site who's a deal maker. We need someone who knows what they're doing. No babies.

Make Hack Forums Great Again!

Thank you,
Roger J. Waters
Candidate for Hack Forums Admin

And why is that? He's been a staff on the site for a good amount of time and I'm pretty sure he knows more than us about what's happening to the forum.

And possibly the right solutions or alternatives to our problems as well.

KFC Watermelon - April 2, 2016, 12:04 am

Hey there Rogers. I'm having a special dinner for HF administration candidates. You are free to come. I hope to discuss lowering sticky prices. I may even donate a lot to your campaign, especially if you speak to the people working for my company.

Also if you could implant more regulations against new products and competition of mine, that would be splendid.

He does, so does Omni. It's just currently disabled for their usergroups.

You can still see their rep on the reputation pages of people they have given rep.
