Thread: Louis Vos scammed for \$120 Proof

Cryptokush - April 3, 2016, 3:04 pm

Louis Vos scammed me $120 for two $100 amazon gift cards at $60 each. Be aware of this scammer. As you can see in the email I got with the codes they were two of the same codes that didn't even work.

edit: added screen shot of original offer. he later dropped price to 60% after further discussion.

Or just fucking fix them?

Your OP does not have enough details, please explain the transaction and include screenshots of your Communication. Just having two transaction related screenshots isn't sufficient for a DD. I mean it can be, but just please provide more.

He purchased AGC codes from the user. The user sent him through Paylvy. The codes didn't work. Simple as that.

I tried purchasing from the Louis Vos guy as well, but he wouldn't go first so I skipped out.

You have to add the dashes, but too late now..
I redeemed them..

Stop being an ass. It says dashes not required.

I think you should add more screenshots. But it seems legit for now.

Sorry to see people get scammed..

Good luck with solving man

Catfisher - April 3, 2016, 3:44 pm

He messaged me, i knew he was dodgy straight away.

Cryptokush - April 3, 2016, 3:48 pm

I'm not an idiot Mobster. I tried it first without dashes but quickly did it again with copy and paste to take a screen shot. Bottom line is he sent me two identical codes that did not even work.

Egregious Jr. - April 3, 2016, 4:15 pm

Sorry about this OP, hope this gets resolved soon. I haven't dealt with this user but he seemed shady and stubborn.

Cryptokush - April 3, 2016, 4:19 pm

I tried contacting the user but it appears as if he deleted his account or logged off and has no intention of coming back. I tried contacting Amazon and they said the code was already redeemed and used by another account. Kinda sucks cause I'm new to this forum and already I had a terrible experience. If anyone knows anything about disputing bitcoin charges (I know it's pretty much impossible) please let me know.

Legitimate. Scam report has been queued for HFAAlert.

BarneyStinson - April 3, 2016, 8:03 pm

I was scammed for $140 BTC by him, as well. This is definitely a legitimate scam report.

XeX Menu - April 4, 2016, 2:34 am

He already scammed a guy on the same thing before he changed his username. Guess you'll learn to research better next time. You were really clueless to do that given his rep but I guess this is your first time being scammed on here. This site has shit policies about scammers so you have to be careful.

To any onlooker, they're talking about this scam report here:

Seems that 'Louis Vos' was 'Wilde Westen' and keeps hopping names after scamming someone.

Vos should have his account closed. It's blatantly obvious that he has scammed several people.

Cryptokush - May 10, 2016, 12:55 pm

It's been over a month now and the dispute has still not been resolved. I guess he will get away with my $120 then.
