Thread: AIM Solutions UID=2494924 | Disputing Payments | Multiple IP match

Long Story: Spoiler (Click to View)

I was selling Net Monitor after not having interest in it. Long story short, this user here decided to want to bid on the ownership of it (without posting on thread).

He contacted me off HF, and wanted to make the purchase. I didn't have a paypal account that I could use at the time so I had him pay via a site like Twitch.

He then noticed one of my partnership threads, and wanted to give me $50 for being my partner. He paid that the same way, this payment was supposed to been for my servers for something I run.

Well, the person I was buying his server from told me that same night he got disputes from the user.

I asked the user, he claimed it was a "accident" and that he "closed" the disputes.

Later on, he decided to try re-selling what I sold him and since I called him out on his own thread (he decided to say he'll make me regret it) he closed his thread and then -'d me and then also put me on his block list.

Every time I'd look in marketplace, I would see his thread. Today I decided to do a comment, bringing up his "partner". After doing some research, I noticed his "partner" has been bumping the guys posts quite often.

I did a trust scan on AIM Solutions, and it is showing his IP is matched with TWO other accounts. I decided to post this content I found on his threads but then got warned and told to make a community alert on it.

User also has a OPEN scam report on him.

He'd have one from me on him about the disputing payment but at this time I careless. I don't have to scam to get my funds/income. ?

Nah, I haven't made one on him since it wasn't my paypal so I can't show proof of it and the guy who he did pay has been arrested.. so its whatever. It's more of a warning to whoever does deals with him.

Not really "talking shit" when I can state the facts, and show the whole skype convo. You don't "accidentally" dispute a payment and I'm pretty sure you'd know this better than anyone Orgy.

Here are few more.

Wow, this whole thing, I now did a deal with AIM, the guy is super cool, and the deal went as smooth as ever. Hmm

I had thought he was cool too, but the fact that he somehow "accidentally" disputed?
+ then made a claim on one of my partnership threads that he "invested $100" into me or some B.S claim..

I have personally dealt with AIM Solutions for over a month and have nothing but good things to say about him. He has never done anything wrong with me in a deal, so I'm sure whatever happened here was a legitimate misunderstanding on his part.

void account - April 5, 2016, 5:51 am

Kids on HF have nothing better to do than be detectives. If you were a little more educated you would have seen that this "second partner" is buying accounts from me and selling them on other forums for a bigger profit. So do many people - even Rusty_v. You want to go and call Rusty_v a "thurd pardner"?

Next on the list is this scam you accuse me of. First of all, The garbage you gave me was the PROGRAM, not the code, of the "project". The program didn't even work. Second, it was a NetSeal license that didn't even work. Before even RECEIVING it, I had to send you money. You begged for more because you wanted me to LOAN you some money - I did so, sent you an extra $50 and you were suppose to send me $75 back on the first of next month.

Those PAYPAL PAYMENTS were AUTOMATICALLY "deal disputed" or whatever - not by me, but by PAYPAL itself. That is why I was so confused - I didn't know how I even disputed them in the first place. You had me buy some kind of tokens on a website called SwerveCast - if you deny this, I will supply the PM's - and the owner of that website got arrested/website shut down for streaming child pornography. Here is YOUR OWN THREAD about the matter.

Stop being a fucking cancer to this community. Everyone wants to sales trash everyone and seem like they have $800K to spend on a website "thank god I didnt buy his website for 500k" LMAO you had me loan you $50 because of your broke ass.

As per the accounts with multiple IP's, there is a reason and only Omni knows that reason. I'm sure if it were a problem I would be closed by now. I made a temp account when my current account wasn't accessible due to me losing G-AUTH. That is why I was rep fucked as you can see in my first rep.

Stop being a shit detective you fucking nerd with no talent.

Here's the pic in case this zero decides to junk it for proof: <https://puu.sh/o6WPK/fb372e2b30.png>
