Thread: My brother has brain cancer. Help him with a share.

Diamondo - April 10, 2016, 1:15 am

Hello dear friends. My brother has been diagnosed with brain cancer one month ago and he already taken five surgeries, the problem is the problem persist so he need to get a treatment in Turkey and I and my father don't have any more money. We already paid 20 000 euros for all only to hear that we need an expensive treatment.

So that's why I opened a fund raising page for him:

<https://www.youcaring.com/beldie-matteo-552841>

I kinda don't know what else to do. I'm sad, nervous and desperate. Any share on facebook or anything will be welcome. Thank you!

As request here is the proof:

This is going to sound cold and heartless, and I apologize in advance if this is true, but why should I believe the money is for your sick brother and won't fund your new PS4 or whatever?

I don't even have FB. I'm just asking a question, I'd be happy to donate if I could verify OPs story.

Why doesn't your mom sell the camera she's taking pictures of her dog with? The picture seems pretty HQ, I mean I bet it's coming straight from a thousand dollar Nikon..

I mean it's pretty clear what's in her profile....

Diamondo - April 10, 2016, 1:28 am

You mean father. And is not his dog. Just a random one from internet...

Cha0 - April 10, 2016, 1:35 am

That still does not verify your story, OP.

Seriously, I'm not trying to be a dick or saying that you're one, I'm just saying there are a lot of dicks who would pull something like this.

Yeah, where's any solid proof like papers from the facility or something.

Core i5 - April 10, 2016, 1:38 am

I can confirm OP's story is true, looked into all of the Facebook profiles and I see no sign of them being counterfeit or fake, I'm going to donate soon too.

I checked the internet too for the pictures of his brother found on the fundraiser and found no real matches.

Good luck and may God be with you, your brother and your family. I know there are some generous folks here on HF, and they will indeed help you out.

Just because the profiles are real that proves his story. That's retarded logic. Do the profiles have old posts talking about the cancer?

A share or a pray, that's enough. I and my father are not waiting for money. We will still work hard to get the money for surgery. That fundraising page is to be there, we are not based on that. We're just afraid that when we'll be close to make that money will be late.

I will never scam someone. Actually I'm thinking to close that, but I kinda don't want to because I'm out of power at this moment.

What should I do?

No one keeps his facebook profile public like that, and please understand that you are donating for your own self and to help humanity out, why would someone tell you the fb profiles of himself, his father and mother. He obviously is desperate to get this shit known, he isnt even asking for a donation he's asking for a share.

Please have some humanity.

PrivateDonut - April 10, 2016, 1:42 am

You would think your mom/dad would share the page, to help support it? Or even make a post related to their son having brain cancer?

Just edit the donation page out of the post or temporarily close it if you can't edit posts.

I will never understand the praying mindset. You're praying to a god who let something bad happen, asking him to magically reverse it? Come on man it's 2016, your religion has failed you.

But he is asking for money, by asking you to share the link? Because by you sharing it, increases the chances of him getting an actual donation. When there is no real proof to back it up, that's why a lot of pages gets loads of donations, because they provide proof of what's going on.

This. I doubt he'll get any donations, at least not from someone with a brain. Because he didn't provide any proof, other then a small story. As I said above, a lot of donation pages like this gets a lot of money for one reason, they can provide full proof of treatment, costs, etc.

Not sure how dick riding and 13-year-old kids got involved in this. I am however sure of the fact that if you believe the story is false for whatever reason. Do not share it, do not donate. It'd be better if we went on with our lives rather than baselessly arguing. None of us have any real proof if this situation is fake while we also don't have any real proof if it's true.

Sure he's asking members on hackforums to share it, but why should we share it? He didn't bother to post any proof as most donation pages tend to do. If we did decide to share it, it would send traffic his way, and people fall for these type of stories all the time.

I'm not openly saying his story is fake, but if he wants to get some where with this, he's going to need to provide some proof. Regardless if people on hackforums shares it or not, it could be some made up story for all we know. Again, I'm not saying he did make it up, but we don't know.

Sorry for the quality in my father's name.

I think that's enough proof, now we can end this stupid debate once and for all.

My best wishes to your family, I only have BTC atm, once I get it exchanged I'll donate soon.

Good luck!

Does anyone from your family or circle of friends experienced these kind of diseases which my brother has?

My late grandmother suffered from the same condition, so in someway I understand your situation. I am hoping, wishing and praying for the best!

I'm the wannabe thug? Haha, says the guy trying to act like a tough hard ass on the internet. Everything you say is hypocritical and just pathetic.

Typical hood rat, uneducated as hell and trying to appear tough when we all know you're just some angry child. Your home life must fucking blow if it's made you angry enough to act like this on the internet.

Hey OP. Just a quick question. I shared your page anyway, but why doesn't your family use resources? Like every government has funds available for families who can't pay for healthcare in situations such as this.. At a certain price it's just written off as un-payable. Your family could even take out a loan. Sure $25,000 is a lot to be in debt, but it's an option..

I asked my father that and what he said don't surprise me since is Romania. My father said to tell you that Matteo doesn't even got allocation for two months. And also my father tried and he said that they are out of funds and lies like that.

My country suck it hard bro. If you don't make profit for them, you can die. They won't care!

//. Update: Everything getting worse than worse. Just found out the Matteo's treatment don't cost 25 000 euros, but 38 000 euros. My father just told me that he said that at the beginning. I think I'm getting crazy, my life is more fucked up more than it should be. Don't know who will die first... me, Matteo or my father?
