You guys are just sad... it's his own group. If he wanted to change his mind and sell 50 more spots that's his choice lol. He didn't plan on adding more than 30 members. And even so he didn't specify if he is counting the members total of total number of members he adds. Whenever I've dealt with my group, I never count leaders or myself as members... and I know of other groups that do the same. So depending on how he looks at it, maybe there really was only 30 "members" and just 1 leader.

The buy ins aren't the worst move

It's just the way how he acts

Always talks shit then he kicks regular members or himself from the group so he can sell more buy ins without having more than 30 members

I don't understand why buy ins even exist. I mean, if i had a group, i would want HQ members. Not saying that they aren't, but this looks like he only cares about the money. I mean, Grim is a HQ member, many members of the group are too..Anyways, its his group, and i should not complain.
