Thread: I have a lot of time, all the time.

Techius - April 18, 2016, 2:31 am

As the title suggests, I constantly have a lot of time on my hands. With it being the school holidays here I have even more time on my hands.

What should I do to convert my time into some money? I see IG + CPA looks pretty good, but I'm genuinely not sure how to gain legit followers who are interested.

Cheers

It's a gambling ebook. I'm not interested in that anymore.

Let me break it down for you. If you had time, you'd do research, if you did research you'd find methods on the same page you posted this thread and you'd try them, assuming you had plenty of time you couldve trial and error most of them and make either of them work for you.

You do have time, I dont doubt that, I doubt you're one of many deluded people who think they'll still have "plenty of time" as well as get rich quick method on their hands, sorry to burst your bubble, aint gonna happen.

Can you check your PM's? I mean I'm trying to get in touch with you for over a week and you ignore all my messages :) For real now, I don't think you can't read your PM's, mail or even the skype messages. :)

And no, I didn't spammed you. Just 1 PM every 24 hours and I see you are just online and don't even bother to read or help me, a customer of your e-book ;) Thanks.

Real methods are not sold, they are used until they no longer work. I sold one of my methods before at a single copy for $3200 before. Mass sold ebooks DO NOT work as promised. Research and discover!

check my signature, won't earn you $1000's but will definitely get you some good money if you have 15 minutes every day.

Yeah, I have used PostLoop for some time around 2-3 years ago and I've made around $50.

However, make sure that your posts aren't spammy otherwise the posts won't be credited towards your earning balance and you may even get banned from the forum that you've signed up on.

Also, since you have a lot of free time, why not try to start a gaming YouTube channel? Just come up with an original (or not) idea, start creating content and uploading it. Of course, you still won't get $1000s daily but if you want to combine the best of both worlds (gaming and money making) then YouTube is the way to go.

Honestly i've made more money working at minimum wage job (last year when I worked the summer) than when I spent my days trying to make a "quick" buck online.

That's cause probably Acteda, you didn't come up nowhere good with the methods you used or you just didn't pay much attention or didn't try as much as you should (just my opinion ofc, no offense).

For example I totally agree to that particular thing you're saying (about the minimum monthly wage), just cause I am currently working for years now but to be honest I've also made good amount of money using a specific CPC method back at 2014 (ex. 800$+ per month just from Google, without counting MediaNet as well(mostly cause media was shitty but still made me profit)). ?

And to finish my sentence, It's just as many guys around here say, there is a huge chance to make $$ online, all you need to do is research or even combine many methods to get better results ;)
