What games do you play?

Bo3, Gta 5, H1Z1, 2k16, Cs:Go, MineCraft, Payday 2.

Do you have any competitive experience?

Nah

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events?

I already play on average, 2-4 hours a day. Could be more on the weekends and I can play all day if im into it. Minimum of 3 hours.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector

I expect a fun, tightknit community where I can meet new people to play with and become close with. I know tons of people who are in fusion who constantly complain that there aren't that many group gaming nights. I expect there to be as many gaming tournaments/nights as possible to make the group more active and fun for the members.

Why should you be accepted?

I should be accepted because I would dedicate a shit ton of time towards the sector and be extremely active. I may be pretty young compared to the other members on here but I can act very mature.

Name : Overcome

Profile Link : <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=954841>

Age : 22

What games do you play? : Halo MCC (H1, H2, H2A, H3, H4), Destiny, Halo 5

Do you have any competitive experience? : I began playing competitively in halo 3, where I grinded to the rank of a 5-star general with 6 50s. I then became an avid Gamebattles player, having many top placings on the Halo 3 singles and doubles ladders. When Reach was released, I became the #1 overall ranked GB player for the first 7 or so months before slowing down. I continued to play Gamebattles, and amassed the overall records displayed in my signature, in addition to other top teams that I do not have the URLs for. I continued to play Halo 4, and ended up coming in 2nd place in the Gamebattles doubles play-offs, after beating two professional teams to make it to the finals. However, due to time constraints related to my university workload at the time, I stopped playing as much. I also grinded the crap out of MW3 after its released and maintained a top 50-60 position in FFA until Christmas break was over. I was almost top page for strength when OSRS was released.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : I am no longer a teenager so I do not have a massive amount of free time, that being said I will ensure that I do attend gaming nights and that I remain active within the sub-forum and with the community.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood Xbox Gaming Sector : I expect the Brotherhood Xbox Gaming Section to provide me with a distinct and informative experience that is all-encompassing in relation to the various titles on the Xbox One console. I would like to join the Brotherhood and be welcomed by a group of individuals whom I share similar interests. I want to have access to the discussions, group activities, guides, and public forum activities that come with being part of a user group. In addition, I expect to engage the Brotherhood's community not only to provide input, but to absorb knowledge from those who are experienced in areas that I am not. I continually strive to enhance my knowledge base, and I hope to be able to do that here.

Why should you be accepted? Well, I've explained most of my gaming accomplishments above which evidently separates me from the average HF user. I was a member of Respawn and enjoyed my time within the group, and engaging the community on behalf of the group.

I'm a 22-year-old Canadian Dean's list student, I was the #1 overall ranked GB player for Halo Reach for the first 7 or so months before taking a break. I have amassed the records in my signature, in addition to many other top page teams during my time on Gamebattles. The overall theme from the aforementioned is that I have the drive to be great. Therefore, I will be a productive member who is actively engaged in improving myself, and others in the group, through my inner group interactions and my interactions, that are representative of the group, to the community. I am not a user simply trying to acquire a user bar.

Name : Username is LOL @ Your Swag. My nickname is BK.

Profile Link : <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=290801>

Age : 24

What games do you play? : Was a big halo fanatic. Would play H2, H3, Reach, and 4. Also have played COD4, MW2, Blackops. I mainly play sport games now like 2k16. The playoffs are open us and it's almost over! I'm waiting for the new Gears to come out for Xbox One. Haven't played H5 because it's a joke now, compared to what it was. Achieved a legit 42 in team snipers in Halo 2. Was hard to get passed 40+ because there was modders and cheaters. For H3, I achieved a lvl 50 in TS, and a 47 in Team Doubles. Also had a 39 in lone wolves.

Do you have any competitive experience? : Yes, I did game battles for Halo 3 and had my own team. Also lanned locally for H2 for FFA and placed first. Tophers, a semi pro, was also in that game.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : I spend at least a couple of hours gaming. As for community events, it depends where and how far I would have to travel. I graduated last year in CS and work full-time for IT.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood Xbox Gaming Sector : To game with a group of brothers who share the same interest. Who are decent at gaming, and don't play around, and are serious.

Why should you be accepted? I've been here on HF for over 6 years. I have no negative rep or scam reports. It's not really common to see members such as myself still on HF. I've been gaming since the Sega ages. Started competitively gaming for Halo 2. That game changed everything for me and I was mind blown from it. The year 2000 really changed everything for me. With the Halo 2 release and my Ravens winning the Super Bowl. I'm very competitive when it comes to gaming. I'm also a chill member and easy to communicate with. I also keep my composure while gaming. Thanks for the opportunity!

I think you should add this to the application as well:

Gamertag(s): My current one that I use is WooT In Da BooT. I've had many others such as KomaiLiam0K which I've changed many times. The gamertags before were KomaiLLL is uR my old clan and team for H3. KomaiLLLLLLLLLLL and R2K Komail for H2. My other one was iikillswitchnii which was my first gamertag for H2. Believe it or not I actually used to be in the OcR clan and my gamertag was OcR Nocturnal for H2.

Depending on work schedule

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood Xbox Gaming Sector : A good gaming community to play with and have fun.

Why should you be accepted? I believe I should be accepted because I am one of those gamers that enjoy playing with groups of people that enjoy playing for a purpose and not to just be a trolling ass. I also have been looking for a good community to play with that aren't complete trolls.

Do you have any competitive experience? : I do indeed. I've played CoD (Call of Duty) now for 4 years and I'm really competitive in every game I'm in. I play regularly with my friends, we make a 6 man, and we are a solid team.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : As much as needed! I absolutely love making new friends on the xbox and meeting up with fellow HF members would be a fun and new experience for me.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood Xbox Gaming Sector : I expect to meet a wide variety of new people with different opinions on both consoles. I'm hoping to make friends quickly and for those friends to join me on my preferred console and play some games.

Why should you be accepted? There is nothing specific or any thing worthy of being outlined in my application. I'm just a guy who loves playing games with friends. This group seems like an amazing experience to be apart of and one the group's main focus is gaming.

Thank you for reading.

I did when I was younger, I was actually quite good at Heroes Of Newerth, I was at 1800+ MMR & I was in a clan with some buddies, we won a few tournaments etc.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? :

All hours I don't work(Meaning I would be able to play for hours lol)

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood Xbox Gaming Sector :

I expect to get some new knowledge, that is why I am part of HF & other forum communities and of course a lot of fun!

Why should you be accepted?

I would love to be accepted simply because I need more motivation to begin gaming a bit more, not that I don't already have it, but getting this opportunity would make me want to stream more & in general be a bit more of a gamer than I have been in the past few years.

Which sector are you applying for?

The PC sector, of course.

Name:

Ongoing.

Profile Link:

<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=2275840>

Age:

I'm currently 21 years old.

What games do you play?

I play a lot of first-person shooters, survival games and a lot of Rocket League.

Here is a link to the games I have and a screenshot of my past played games and hours in the past 2 weeks.

<http://steamcommunity.com/id/Inno/games/?tab=all>

Spoiler (Click to View)

My hours would be a lot higher but I've been sick the past few days so I haven't been able to play or stream.

Do you have any competitive experience?

I play a lot of FACEIT and CEVO with a few of my friends, so I guess that's a little bit of competitive experience seeing as the CSGO scene is extremely competitive.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events?:

I mean, I have a lot of time as I currently don't go to school, nor do I have a job, so I spend most of my time doing web development and I stream a lot so any gaming night that is held will be streamed. ?

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector:

Honestly, I just want to meet new friends that share the same interests as me.

Why should you be accepted?

Because I'm an avid gamer and I spend most of my day gaming with friends and streaming so I think I'd be a perfect fit for the group/sector.

Oh, here's a picture of my PC specs.

What games do you play? : Warframe and GTA 5 Only

Do you have any competitive experience? : Haven't been to any tournaments, but I have been involved in the Clan Wars competitive sector in warframe with my clan, and we have won quiet a few wars on our old clan. My current clan hasn't had the chance to wage any wars as this feature is temporarily under maintenance by game developers and has been for quiet a long time, more than 4 months.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : I can dedicate 5 hours or more on certain nights to gaming events, depending on the game. For warframe, I dedicate minimum 3 hours a day, and on weekends around 6 hours a day as I am the leader of a active clan with 300 members.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector : A few people to play with, maybe some new clan members, knowledge, fun, and maybe a small warframe community to share different builds, clan attack strategies, character strategies, etc.

Why should you be accepted? I have a passion for video games, particularly Warframe, and will contribute actively to the group as well as help any Warframe players or new players in Warframe and other games I might play or have accounts on. I will also be sharing lots of knowledge and contributing builds and the such, not only game builds but also PC builds and the such.

? H1Z1 (Late nights, mostly on CDNThe3rd's server, some of you probably know him)

Do you have any competitive experience? : I have 6 years of competitive gaming experience. I started with GBs on XBOX but I have grown away from console gaming and especially COD. I have been playing CSGO for almost 3 years now, have about 4,000 hours and grind the game daily. I'm always working on improving. I've been playing ESEA, FACEIT, and CEVO leagues for a few months now.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : As much time as needed. I'm pretty much always around.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector : To meet some new people that are involved in the similar games I have interest in.

Why should you be accepted? Well, all my free time goes to csgo/gaming, so I would probably be a great member to have within the pc gaming section of the group.

Xbox - Halo 5 (Highest placement Onyx in all playlists), Divison (Newest game just hit 30), Smite (Play at a Diamond level), Rocket League (Least played game)

PC - League of Legends (Gold), CSGO (Never play anymore because solo Q is lame, was Global), Runescape/RSPS

Do you have any competitive experience?:

I played CSGO/Halo very competitively, used to be Global in CSGO, and played in many LANs in Florida/California know and befriended many top professionals who all interact with me via twitter, in-game. As well as Halo.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events?:

My schedule is 100% open, and I am on a vampire life style.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector:

Honestly looking for just a community of skilled people to actually be able to play/grind with whenever I am playing. Squaded is always better than solo. PC

Why should you be accepted?:

I am a gamer, have been forever, if there is any group I actually should be in it is certainly this one and this sector.

Age :21-25. I am pretty mature for my age. (Please be aware, I don't care about your age in general, I only require you to act like a mature person)

What games do you play? :I am currently playing call of duty black ops 3 I was master prestige by December 15th 2015 with Dark Matter. I have a 1.98 K/D ratio also. I absolutely love Rocket League. I also love Halo, even though I believe they killed the series I still buy the new games and follow the story line. Right now I am addicted to the game ARK, I think it's really addicting and time consuming which I love.

A few games I still need to play: Bioshock, Mass Effect, Assassins Creed, Skyrim and I am thinking about purchasing the full Fallout series and doing those.

Do you have any competitive experience? :I was big into Game battles back in my halo 3 days. I use to play halo 2 competitive as well but not on GB I'd go to local lams. But trust me when I play call of duty I still sweat my ass off and try to win. Unless my team is just terrible then there is nothing I can do about that.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? :I game every night. I play anywhere from 5-8 hours a night but it all depends on if I have to work the next day and how tired I am. On the weekends I can play non stop for 12-15 hours.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood Xbox Gaming Sector :I am honestly wanting to join so I can make some new friends and have people to play with. Back in the day I would get home from class turn on my xbox and have a whole friends list to play halo 3 with and now I don't have that. All of the people that I have now sit and watch Netflix non stop which is okay but they never want to play.

Why should you be accepted?I am pretty knowledgable in the gaming scene. I use to know a lot more when I was younger but I still know my way around everything. I'm just a friendly gamer looking for friends is what it is. I have been gaming since I was a little kid playing duck hunt and the original Mario. I try my best to help people out if it's from their PC to Xbox even if I don't know something about it I will still google and try my best to help them.

What games do you play?: I mostly play competitive games such as CS:GO, League Of Legends and H1Z1.

Sometimes I play games like Agar.IO/non-competitive games that aren't that important to calm me down.

Do you have any competitive experience?: I do. I've been playing for several CS:GO teams, and we have competed in small FaceIT, CEVO and ESEA tournaments. However, when I play in team we've never been getting quite far and it mostly ends up with someone leaving the team.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events?: Since I'm on the computer 14+ hours a day, I can dedicate very much time to this. For events, I'm going to DreamHack this summer in Sweden, and I've been in several events like PAX, DreamHack, and small LANs in Sweden as well.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector: Activity, most. People to play with, get new friends and maybe learning new game experience and helping beginners out.

Why should you be accepted?: Gaming is my passion, it's almost everything I do in my spare time. I'd say I'm an outstanding player that is really good in competitive games and can control the most situations. I can help people that want to be more interested in gaming and help out in general and try to be as active as possible. Thanks for taking your time reading.

Do you have any competitive experience? : Competitive in Lans? No. But I play a large selection of competitive games.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : Weekends, I can dedicate several hours.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector : All I expect is to just have a friendly community, create new friends, and possibly play comp together with people I've never met before. I would like to make new experiences.

Why should you be accepted? I think I should be accepted because I would like to create new experiences and friends in The Brotherhood. I've been in multiple groups revolving around games but sometimes I think a lot of us get too competitive and the groups tend to become extremely toxic.

Instead, I'd like to be not as serious and have fun in games rather than having that extreme competitive mentality. By always being competitive, people will ridicule each other and the playing environment is no longer healthy. I'd like to come into The Brotherhood not to be very competitive, but to have fun while still progressing and getting better in games. We all have installed games at first to have fun at first but then we become monsters that only care about getting to the top of the ladder. I hope to join to get rid of this way of thought.

What games do you play? :

CS:GO, Rocket League, GTA V, DayZ, Arma 2-3, Garry's Mod, H1Z1, Ark: Survival Evolved, Tera, Squad, Soldier Front, LoL, thinking of getting back into MC soon, sometimes Tom Clancy's The Division, and much more. Trying to get into more MMO RPGs soon.

Do you have any competitive experience? :

Yes. I've participated in a few ESEA tournaments with a team and we got pretty far in the ladder. I play games competitively anyway so I wouldn't mind going back if that's something the sector aims for. I still play ESEA casually. Back on Xbox in COD BO2 I participated in a team that held one of the top spots in the ranked tournaments.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? :

Plenty of time. I'd estimate 5-8 hours? More if needed but I'd prefer not to pull an all nighter unless it's worth it. :P

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector :

An amazing and fun experience. The Brotherhood is (in my eyes) the best group on HF so I expect nothing less of your gamers. I'd like to make new friends and share our personal tricks that we've developed in our favorite games to help each other improve.

Why should you be accepted?

I should be accepted because I believe that my presence in the group will be beneficially to every single member. Whether I'm teaching someone or sharing my experiences I really believe it will allow many members to have more fun and elevate their performance in games that they play.

I've been gaming for a large portion of my life starting with the PS2 and all the Pokemon games on DS.

I have experience in so many areas from playing on servers to owning them. Yes I'm millionth who owned a Minecraft server and made hundreds of dollars. Except I had 3 profitable servers simultaneously all while I was 13 years old.

After branching out from Minecraft into games that need more power, I had to learn about computers and how to build them so I could keep playing the games I wanted to at a comfortable FPS. This led to me building one of course. I have a vast knowledge of computer hardware and specifications based on that. This is probably common knowledge in a group of avid gamers though right? I'll move on.

I'll keep things about my personality short just because it does get boring but I do think it's important enough to mention. I pride myself on my decision making, rationale, and logic. I incorporate this into my strategies in-game especially in CS:GO, which played a big part in me reaching GE. I can't play games like Fallout 4 because I hate solo games. I have the most fun playing with friends so multiplayer is the way I go. Making many new friends in The Brotherhood who share my passions is a goal of mine if I am to be accepted.

I'm a very capable person with many skills and talents. You can trust me to run a server or even edit some files if you can't do it for some reason. I do my utmost to never let people down and help whenever possible.

I can teach anyone how to play CSGO or simply make them better. (A few other games as well)

I can even make servers for a few different titles whether we are trying to monetize or just have fun as a group. I can collect small donations from members to help run it monthly or even pay for it myself if it isn't too expensive. I imagine you guys already have a server or two for some games.

I'm a passionate and competitive gamer who performs at very high levels in many titles. I will bring as much as I can to the gaming sector of The Brotherhood.

Looking forward to a response from you guys. ?

What games do you play? : Call of Duty

Do you have any competitive experience? : Yes, Played UMG and Gamebattles before (UMG Profile and Gamebattle Profile)

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community-wide events? : Whenever I'm not busy with school work or something personal. I have a lot of free time during the summer and would be willing to put in a lot of time.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PS4 Gaming Sector : Meet some new friends and possibly if they're good enough get a competitive team going.

Why should you be accepted? : I can bring a lot of experience to the group and work with others to attempt to win tournaments. I've been in the competitive Call of Duty scene for quite some time now. With COD4 remastered coming out it would be great to have some people to play with.

What games do you play?: Too many to comprehend, mostly competitive games and first person shooters.

Do you have any competitive experience?: I was the #1 overall ranked GB player for Halo Reach for the first 7 or so months before taking a break. I have amassed the records in my signature, in addition to many other top page teams during my time on Gamebattles.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events?: As long as you need me.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PS4 Gaming Sector: I expect to expand some of your members' knowledge upon gaming and also to acknowledged new techniques and progress through the competition while in The Brotherhood. I also expect some good gamers! :^]

Why should you be accepted?: I should be accepted because I am an extremely friendly guy and proficient gamer. I often help people out if they really wanted a game so they can play it with me and some of their friends. I am a great team-leader too, I can take control under stress if needed.

What games do you play? :

Battlefield 4 (Premium), GTA V, The Long Dark, Ark, Fifa (sometimes), COD AW, Sunset Overdrive and a lot more but notable.

Do you have any competitive experience? :

Yes, I played three small unofficial Battlefield 4 Tournaments.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? :

Too much. I can dedicate literally my entire day (or night) for this. I'm normally a very dedicated member and I don't miss any of these events.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood Xbox Gaming Sector :

I expect to find a lot of new friends to play with and to increase my gaming skill by learning some techniques or tactics from other members and of course share my own.

Maybe we all can go easteregg hunting once a new game launches. (Maybe in BF1 if it has some eastereggs on XB1)

Why should you be accepted?

I should be accepted because I love gaming and The Brotherhood in general. I think it save to say that you can expect some guides and a lot of effort from me.

Not only will I contribute a lot because it is a lot of fun to me, but also because it helps other people and myself. (Learning by doing)

What games do you play? : <https://imgur.com/a/VNwWg> (Also a bit of League, I'm Gold 5)

Do you have any competitive experience? : I play CSGO competitively mainly, I was LEM but due to not having motivation or many people to play with I slowly cared less about my rank and position on Faceit.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : On the weekends I will most probably be free all day everyday however on weekdays I'm from from around 3 P.M - 12 A.M GMT unless I'm on holiday or have time off work.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector : I expect a handy community to play multiple games with and to share opinions/experiences with other members who have the same interest in games with me. I can also review games, if any questions are asked by other members of the brotherhood.

Why should you be accepted? Because I believe that my gaming experience would contribute effectively to the group so that we can all have a positive time playing the games we desire. It would also be nice to get some suggestions and to start playing some new games with people who enjoy them and want to share how good the game is. I should also be accepted because I class myself as quite skilled on most games I play and with the right mindset I can do really well and have fun at the same time. I will also be as loyal as a dog to the group as it would be the only group I intend on being in because gaming is the only reason I'd really be worthy in a group. What games do you play? : CSGO, Csgo Mapmaking, Overwatch, Black ops 1,2&3, Garrys mod, Dont starve

Do you have any competitive experience? : I Do have a lot of it due to the fact that i started playing csgo back in source and loved it then carryed on playing to this day even tho between it all I had a break from gaming.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : About 7 - 9 hours a day i would guess at unless i have work on that day then it would still be in the 4 hours a day max on them days.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector : I expect to meet new people from hf that also game like me and can help each other learn new things about the games and can stick to playing as competitive as we all can.

Why should you be accepted?

I think I should be accepted in the group because I feel that I would be a helpful and kind member who could bring new things to the group and would make a difference to other members who are trying to join the group like I am right now. I feel that the work from us and me being in the group could make fireworks like no one has ever seen before.

What games do you play? : CS:GO, SNOW, FarCry, GTA, Minecraft, Bloodbath Kavkaz. More but these are my faves.

Do you have any competitive experience? : CSGO is my main competitive game. I never play regular matches, just competitive. I actually care about my rank, even though I'm not very high yet. I'm a solo queuer, so I get ranked up a bit slower.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : Practically every night! I always play a game of CSGO before I go to bed, and usually do an unboxing as well.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector : To find new friends and people to play games with. I'm currently not playing any competitive games with any HF members, so my mind is open to new things. I hope to find some Overwatch players to talk me into buying the game. I just see an updated version of TF2.

Why should you be accepted? : No particular reason. I'm laid back, open to new things, and don't cause too much drama. I've been PC gaming for as long as I can remember (Pajama Sam), and play every day.

What games do you play? : As of right now I play GTA 5, Overwatch, CS:GO, Rocket League, Diablo 3, and The Division every now and then. I don't typically play one game more than the other, it simply depends on what I'm in the mood for playing.

Do you have any competitive experience? : I've always had a thoroughly developed competitive spirit. Whether it is sports or in video games I've always got that competitiveness in me. With that said, I had a CS:GO team about a year ago I would scrimmage with and we would keep practicing. We were together for about six to seven months before we lost interest in the game and took a break for a while. I still play matchmaking in CS:GO and Overwatch which allows me to keep my competitive spirit.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : Since I'm pretty much finished with all of my exams and school is going to be over with soon, I can dedicate as much time as possible. This all depends on what plans I have since I do tend to have some plans over the summer break, however this won't interfere with group activity and such.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector : A fun, laid back group of people which all enjoy playing games with a positive environment.

Why should you be accepted?: I've created a special love for games over the past few years, especially with PC games. My competitive urge drives me to play these games and have fun at the same time. Why should you be accepted?

I've been an avid gamer ever since I was young. I have played many games and believe I could bring some helpful tips to the group. I am also good at adapting to new roles in gaming and if I must take charge then I know how to do so without seeming as though I am egotistical. I also really enjoy playing with others, so let's play some games!

Age : (Please be aware, I don't care about your age in general, I only require you to act like a mature person) I am 16 years old.

What games do you play? : League of Legends, Minecraft, Rocket League, GTA V, many others!

Do you have any competitive experience?: I've played league of legends games against my friends and losers were salty as fuck.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events?: As much as is needed, provided I'm not staying up all night. If it's crazy, maybe I can make an exception.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector: I expect to meet lots of new people and make some new friends. I expect to also have some fun of course.

Why should you be accepted? I'm a chill and comfy user. You can guarantee that I'll make everyone feel at home and comfortable if I'm accepted into the group. I may have a few negs but those are just some pixels of red on my profile. I care about games, and I love competition. I love video games, and yah.

Thanks for reading my application. ?

P.S. Free hugs if I get accepted

Do you have any competitive experience? : Hell yeah, i have been doing mlg for a year for BO3 and i'm nice at games since i play a lot...

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : well it is summer time and it can be random since i might hang w/ irl friends but yeah i can be all day and up all night as well.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PS4 Gaming Sector : A good mature friendly gaming community that doesnt yell at you when you mess up and a lot of fun experience especially with these new games coming out this fall it should be great if i get accepted and i stick with.

Why should you be accepted? : I am mature and friendly, i'm not a dickhead and cocky bastard and i am down to play any game.

What games do you play? : League of legends, Csgo, Overwatch, Minecraft

Do you have any competitive experience? : Yes but only with League of legends, played for a team, several tournaments and one online tournament we made it to quarter finals when competing against high diamond/master teams.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : I am known for staying up late at night gaming, almost every day. So I would be able to contribute a lot both daytime and nighttime when it comes to gaming. I love taking part of tournaments and events to meet new people and to be able to eventually compete.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector : A social and friendly group of people/community that are willing to play with and against eachothers and just generally talk about gaming related and other stuff.

Why should you be accepted? Some friends say that I am more social than the average guy, which I see as a positive thing here. I am able to interact and talk with people with any background and from any country. I can spend a lot of time being involved with the group. I have a mature behaviour meanwhile still being a guy with humor. Id rather play with people from the group than playing by myself.

How much time can you dedicate to gaming nights and community wide events? : I game pretty much every day unless I have something to go to which is rare. So to answer the question a lot of time :) I will be able to attend all the events most likely.

What do you expect out of the Brotherhood PC Gaming Sector : I want to find more people to play games with. I think it is worth applying since I know the brotherhood is a long standing group and so you guys must be doing something right. I want to maybe find people who like the same games as me also who like to talk about them.

Why should you be accepted? : I play games almost every day so I think I will click really well with the other people in this group and hopefully make some good friends.
