Hey guy's,

I made a program in c# for check if your file was scanned on virustotal or not.

You do just load your file and the program check if your file was already scanned.

If the result is positive you can see too the scan in WebBrowser.

Virus Scan :

<https://www.virustotal.com/fr/file/4ed0b52ad8e02dc714436354a0c416eba09c1d6d501f5684087fa3d9e33b2a3a/analysis/1461807263/>

For Download : Click Here

Does this just generate the hash for the file & Check VT for it?

VirtualMon3y - April 28, 2016, 12:43 am

Nice program OP this is pretty cool and useful when analyzing FUD times for crypts etc... I will be downloading this for sure.

It obtains the either the SHA-1/256 and searches for it.

If there is a result it will be displayed in the webbrowser below ?

Exactly this get the hash of file, run it on WebBrowser and get if the url on this contains "not found", else this return a scan. But the problem is request blocked by vt, this return a scan but scan not exist.

You realize you just made it easier for the idiots to scan on VT and destroy crypter's FUD time?

This tool just check if your file was scanned on vt or not. This don't destroy crypters, this is helpfull for know if people scan your file.

Yeah, seems like a pretty useful tool. Thanks OP.

But you know... VirusTotal is only one distributing website, there must be a lot of others uploading/scanning websites which distribute in the same way.

(bien joué quand même, je crois que t'es le premier à avoir eu l'idée de faire ça...)
