You're bipolar lol. Hopefully you stick to this and not place the group up for sale in a couple weeks or so.

@Jupiter - April 29, 2016, 12:33 pm

I love the UB. Glad you decided to keep it

Riptide is a group based on all forms of art. Please post here if you have any questions.

I will update this thread with more information once we sort a few things out.

So you decided to stop selling it? make up your mind already.

It was up for sale for nearly a month and no one bought it, and I was already second guessing it from the start. Figured it probably wasn't the best thing to do.

Thanks! UB credit goes to reBELLYus.

And I'll have to disagree with you on this one. I say it is the best thing to do. You bought the group to make money (don't tell me you didn't). You have clearly failed to monetize it, to any extent, at all. Sometimes in life you have to just move on from things. That's just life.

Is recruitment open for this group?

Same thing I am wondering. :)

Hold up. First of all, I decide why I bought the group. I bought the group because I had extra money and wanted a group. Secondly, I haven't attempted to monetize it. I've barely been active in the group. That's the main reason I wanted to sell in the beginning, but my co-worker is finally taking 2nd shift at my job, so I'm no longer working around the clock. Which, if you can't figure this out, means I have more time to spend in the group. Lastly, just because you try to pick something up and quit when it doesn't work out right away doesn't mean I need to be like that. So you can kindly fuck off with the assumptions about how my life works.

congrats! Now you have more time to discuss why Picasso is the better painter than Van Gogh in your own hf subforum! ?????

That's a pretty bad discussion to have though, when they both were on different ends of the spectrum. Picasso was way more talented in mastering art, but Van Gogh created his own style, so I'm not sure what comparing flavors would do. It's subjective to what an individual defines "better" to be, and both parties would be correct.

Either way, we'll do what we decide to do, and you won't be there for any of it, so there's really no point for you to continue talking about things you're ignorant of.

That sucks I was going to place a bid last night then I found out that the thread was junked.

Selling art is an art in itself. I have seen printed pop art selling for very good prices on some e-shops. Maybe Riptide could be a place where there are discussions about art promoting.

Krave - April 29, 2016, 4:03 pm

Good luck with the group, I wish you all the best.

It's not about currency, but promotion will definitely be a thing. We're working on a couple things to help members share their works more publicly.

Agent Shark - May 6, 2016, 10:40 am

Should bring out musicians like myself. I'm sure you'll do wonders with the group.
