Just finished watching it.

The feels, but that was a fantastic one.

The story, the characters, mm

Looking for something similar.

I really liked that show. Im looking for something similar too, yet to find one though.

Tbh this is may be a somewhat different suggestion as it doesn't have to do with "bombing" or terrorism persay; but it is a great show imo and is brutal in its own way of violence and its really good; i suggest you watch speedgrapher; it's pretty bloody and fucked up if you like that type of show. And deals with conspiracies and underground societies etc.

attached image of show, its big as fuck so put in spoiler tags.

Sakamichi no Apollon (Kids on the Slope) is a great pick for something similar to ZnT.

Same director Shinichiro Watanabe, and same godly composer Yoko Kanno, who is behind plenty of masterpiece OSTs. Both shows have a similar feel to it at times, and boths casts feel similar.

This one doesn't involve explosions and riddles though. What it does involve though, is alot of killer jazz tunes.

Seriously recommend it.

Sometimes I feel as if ZnT doesn't get the credit it deserves. Its rarely talked about, and not a lot of people have even seen it... ?

Why not try Akira?

I heard it was good but I haven't watched it myself.

Alot of people on HF have seen it, there's a pretty nice discussion thread for it that I definitely didn't make Akira is a masterpiece, but I wouldn't say it's like Zankyou no Terror.

It's ranked in the top 100 for popularity on MAL. I'd say a fair amount of people have seen it.

Maybe Code Geass?

For me, they have a similarity xD

SkullCandy - May 4, 2016, 9:45 pm

Looks interesting, added to to watch list :P
