Thread: Lost access to my ub3r purchase receipt

Sucker for pain - May 17, 2016, 9:47 am

Well, I lost access to my ub3r payment receipt, what can I do now?

Incase I come up with any account problems in the future how do I provide proof of ownership

Truth - May 17, 2016, 9:49 am it should be in your email and paypal history or maybe BTC transaction?

how do you lose access?

Paypal keeps logs of all that. I got ub3r years ago.. And still have records of that saved by them. Same goes for the first Hackercraft when Omni owned it.

If it was paid with btc, do not stress too much over it.

If it was through PayPal, they'll keep the logs.

My l33t purchase was over 4 years ago so I had to contact them to get it sent to me since they only show 3 years back.

And unfortunately my ub3r was on my personal PayPal that is closed.

As long as you have one of the two, you should be fine. Cus I gave Omni my l33t one when I had issues.

I personally wouldn't worry too much about it. Omni would know if your region and your IP matched or anything else matched.

I see threads where he disables 2FA for people without transaction IDs or anything.

Sucker for pain - May 17, 2016, 10:37 pm

Well, i think someone else had purchased ub3r for me via BTC

And had sent me the receipt, but I lost it and don't remember the guys name.

My IP matches my country, but not registration IP since I've changed ISP's and cities quite a bit

Make sure you have your account protected by your personal information. Email, password, Gauth/2FA, etc.

This thread is really suspicious.

Well, even If your friend did send it via BTC. If he can get the address he sent the Bitcoin too and from it should be fine if you can specify dates.

Think of it as you may.
I have 2fa enabled since a while.

I don't remember the users name who bought it for me that's the problem and I probably deleted the PM with receipt ages ago.

I know my account will always be kept secure, but I'm just asking by chance if anything happened?

I got it gifted to me so how would that work? (i forgot the person who bought it for me)

Check your reputation? "Thanks for Ub3r?" or something?

OP do you have L33t payment?

If you have the payment details then it'll be cool. Just make sure your Security code of Gauth is backed up.
