

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Updated plugin, plugin page doesn't change...

Akrapovic - May 21, 2016, 6:34 am

So I have a problem...

I deleted some plugins, but the plugin still appears in the plugin page...

I already deleted the cache.

Fudster - May 21, 2016, 6:36 am

Did you try turning it off and on again?

On a serious note. Maybe it's your browser cache? Try using a different browser or better yet use a private window.

Akrapovic - May 21, 2016, 6:44 am

(May 21, 2016 06:36 AM)Fudster Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Did you try turning it off and on again?

On a serious note. Maybe it's your browser cache? Try using a different browser or better yet use a private window.

I tried a different browser, and also a private window...

But the deleted plugins are still there! Very strange :(

Fudster - May 21, 2016, 7:08 am

(May 21, 2016 06:44 AM)Akrapovic Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I tried a different browser, and also a private window...

But the deleted plugins are still there! Very strange :(

What about the forum cache?

Also did you delete then via file or via the panel?

Akrapovic - May 21, 2016, 7:13 am

(May 21, 2016 07:08 AM)Fudster Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What about the forum cache?

Also did you delete then via file or via the panel?

I also deleted the forumcache!

I did the changed via ftp

Also new plugins I upload to the site doesn't show in the admin dashboard

Dr1ps - May 21, 2016, 9:38 am

Are you sure you're connected to the correct FTP server?

KnownSyntax - May 21, 2016, 4:34 pm

Did you make sure that you cleared out your own browser's cache (and if you are using CloudFlare for example that you have your site in live development mode so there is no other cache happening)?

Next would be making sure you did the changes to the correct locations on the correct server.

Wires - May 21, 2016, 9:45 pm

This can happen sometimes if you don't deactivate and uninstall plugins before deleting the files.