Thread: Scammed by 'Dark' for 50\$ CSGO Item. uid=2025980

CallisterX - May 23, 2016, 6:13 pm

Recently made a post regarding the sale of my CSGO Inventory:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5279747>

Username: Dark - messaged me regarding items.

He first suggested buying around 600$ worth of items.

I declined this and stated that 40$ was the maximum increment I was willing to do for the item:
AWP Lightning Strike - Minimal Wear.

Here's a snapshot of our conversation:

<https://gyazo.com/7bc03efdd543da673caec83d5cd362f7>

- I'm happy to record this / refresh the page, if necessary.

His final in our PMs was:

"Actually don't send just yet, about to go for food, will be back in 30 mins."

He said this after he'd already accepted.

Proof of him accepting: <https://gyazo.com/c947d5e7065a66ae4c628fdbb8d4490d>

I am willing to go to extreme lengths to get this user banned, I will checking this thread everyday and his profile to see if he's banned. Thanks, ban this fuck.

Add UID to thread title

uid=2025980

Sucks man.

It's literally pathetic. 50$. Now I don't know how to go about selling my items.

Not sure if I have any trust left to send my items first - not even sure if people offer Middleman services on here.

Seems legit..

sorry for your loss op!

Certain members do (myself included), but you should even deal with caution when using a middleman.

I'm sorry but you deserved to get scammed. If you looked at his rep/trust-scan/ Searched his UID you could see has over 10+ Scam reports.

EDIT : I take that back. No user deserves to get scammed but c'mon

Banana - May 23, 2016, 7:46 pm

Bro he has an entire fucking page worth of scam reports open. Check his uid before dealing.

Because Staff does not get involved in deal disputes and all deals are done with users discretion

If the person who is scamming becomes an issue where everyone is getting scammed in a short period of time then he will be closed. Also it depends on how omni or staff is feeling tbh. But don't take my word for it I don't really know much.
