What I love about this tutorial is that it lowers the barriers and mystery for non-gfx people like myself. Just start with a 1200 x tall image and fill it one color , then use the rect and text tools and there you have a thread! The problem for me is the "Find an image and drag it in" part, where do you find good images to use in a thread design?

Thank you very much Maxim, I can't wait for part 3!

I just simple Google, you do not really have to worry about using copyrighted material due to this forum os closed from non members.

Glad you liked my guide, part 3 will be out in about a week.

M?xim - June 1, 2016, 5:26 pm

Part 3 will be published in a day or two.

Flaticon, icons8, iconfinder, iconarchive are all great sites to get icons from.
Also, it's very important that you use icons from an icon pack or icons which are in a similar style.

If you're talking about a banner image, I highly suggest that you use: alpha.wallhaven.cc
