

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Clickable text

STYLING - May 28, 2016, 3:48 pm

Hey guys, I'll be really grateful if anyone can help me.

I want an addon that makes clickable, choosable text. Is there such a thing?

I want to be able to click steam: links in a shoutbox. So far haven't had anything work.

For example, someone posts a steam://etcetcetc, I want to be able to click it and have it open up, instead of manually copying it into the address bar.

Thanks!

He B TeMy - May 29, 2016, 11:35 am

<https://addons.mozilla.org/en-US/firefox/addon/plain-text-linker/>

Does the job, i've used various but this is best, i can't vouch if it works for steam links because i never tried but it works good for the rest.

STYLING - May 30, 2016, 9:18 am

(May 29, 2016 11:35 AM)ff20 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#)

<https://addons.mozilla.org/en-US/firefox/addon/plain-text-linker/>

Does the job, i've used various but this is best, i can't vouch if it works for steam links because i never tried but it works good for the rest.

I just need a plugin that lets you set a prefix of something..

Say I want it to detect that everything after steam: will be clickable.

Sorry but what you linked me didnt work

+mK - May 30, 2016, 9:44 pm

Edit: Ah, gotcha. Hold on.

Edit #2: In the event that this requirement is private, feel free to PM me, but what website are you referring to? This way, I can test it before giving you a suggestion.

I'm the king of productivity and laziness, I should be able to get something working.

STYLING - June 10, 2016, 2:15 am

Alright, bumping this up. The application I need this for is simple. Say someone posts a link that looks like this steam://124314

steam links are naturally un-clickable. I want something that lets me set a prefix that everything that has the word "steam://" in it will be clickable. I tried a few addons but none worked the way I wanted to. Could anyone maybe bodge anything up?