Thread: Scam Report Format

? TAQ ? - May 29, 2016, 6:49 am

I've noticed a lot of members are unaware of how to make a proper scam report/deal dispute thread, so I'm going to make a quick guide/format.

Code Profile:

Amount:

Description:

Thread in Question if any:

Proof/Pics:

1. You can start by adding the user's UID into the title, their UID can be found by clicking their profile, and the UID is located at the end of the address bar.
2. Secondly, make a hyperlink to the users profile(if you don't meet the 50 post count requirement, just post their UID).
3. You should then state the amount that you paid the member in question, and payment method.
4. Afterwards, you should explain in detail, what you were purchasing, what the deal was, and what happened after you paid the member.
5. Then, you should add pictures and chat logs to support your thread.
6. Lastly, you should add your thread to The Deal Dispute Database.

Very nice tutorial TAQ, this should help a lot of the newer members who've gotten scammed.

Stashyy - May 29, 2016, 6:50 am

Why not have the spoiler content on the top. Also take off the spoilers.
So new members know what they can/can't do.

Thank you, I'm hoping this helps and saves people time in the future, wondering how I can get this to be sticky noted at the top.

I am pretty sure there was a thread like this stickied at one point.. I believe Omni removed it since people weren't even using it.

Thank you for the structure criticism, the only reason I put the spoiler at the bottom, is because its just a friendly reminder, as the hyperlink rule is stated at the top of the section already.

If it gets good feedback I would bring it to a staff member who could possibly forward it to Omni.

Thats ashame, hopefully he stickies this, cause I feel a lot of people don't know how to make a proper report.

Bro, you should add about the rep rules too by omni, someone rep an invalid rep recently, I think he forgot to link to his own dd, so got himself repkilled and account closed instead.

I won't note that for a few reasons, but I know what you're talking about, I'll leave that up to others.

So did Wolves around 2011, but its very buried, and it doesn't seem to be used, nor was it easy for me to find until after I created this quick format.

Anarchist07 - May 30, 2016, 3:45 am

This is a good starting point for anyone that wish to create a deal dispute and following the right format to users don't have to waste their time telling people how to do it.

Good job.

Mr. Robot - May 30, 2016, 3:46 am

Sucks that this even has to be a thing but good job :)

Yes it is, noticed quite a lot of reports going on lately, and some were hard to read, and lacked proof/links.

My point is that this will get buried too unless you get it stickied.

I can pay for a sticky as long as you keep it updated.

Yes I understand, also no need to pay for it to be stickied, I'll keep it relevant and influence it in the DD section as long as I'm active, cause my intentions when online is normally to help other members.

That's the marketplace for you. Invoking scams since 2008.

Sad thing is for every scam there are 20 good deals.

Thank you, and yes I know the feeling, and figured it was a mutual feeling between a lot of other members, so wanted to make a quick guide that I'll attempt to keep active.

Previously, they wasn't any standard format to follow, old dd tutorial isnt any help when I check them out, so I also checkout other members dd, and follow how its done, so I'm at fault now??

Currently there's two members format.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5237983>

and

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5285936>

So both formats similar, so which format to follow now?

As for my old dds, I'm not changing the main thread post. It stay as it is, newer dds can follow new formats but now, which one to follow(above)?

Divined, digging up old posts to prove a point means nothing.

People can even do the same thing to you.

What we need to work on instead of throwing stones out of your glass house is work on getting people to use the format from now on.

DuguWudi - June 1, 2016, 1:20 am

I just notice Divined, you never add any of your dd into the dd database...
