

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: [I quit my job \[Update thread\]](#)

Reven?nt - June 6, 2016, 4:59 pm

This is to update a thread I recently made about quitting my jobs. Read here:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5294788>

So, I contacted the Union (an organization that keeps workers safe from being fired and taken advantage of), and they gave me a callback today. I explained to him everything that happened, he explained how they were wrong and not allowed to do that, and how they tricked me into believing they could etc. He called the store and talked to them about it, he said the manager would be fine if I came in tomorrow and sat down to talk about it. The guy from the Union said he will come to the store and be with me in case I need help during the conversation (He is a lawyer I believe). Also, the guy who tried to physically and verbally intimidate me most likely won't get in any kind of trouble, he said (Union) that it would be my word against his and that he has been there for quite a long time. I told him I would only go back to the department I first was in, he explained that it would be possible and that I could even go to another store if I would like. What do you guys think I should do? I don't know if I even want to go back there after everything that has happened.

Black Shadow - June 6, 2016, 5:08 pm

I would go back or to a different store don't let someone bully you out of a job.

Reven?nt - June 6, 2016, 5:10 pm

(Jun 6, 2016 05:08 PM)Black Shadow Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I would go back or to a different store don't let someone bully you out of a job.

All the stress and other things it has brought makes me not want to go back. I could go to another store, however, the drive is going to be a bit longer. Was going to dive into an online business I been wanting to do as well, however, if I go back I won't have the time.

Juan The Young Chef Don - June 6, 2016, 5:12 pm

Fight him, If she want to be alpha male you out alpha male him.

AMAVI - June 6, 2016, 6:09 pm

Just go to another store, ya the drive is longer but you don't have to deal with all the bullshit and stress, the drive is worth it imo, if your at peace with the other store, then ya.. go for it.

Page - June 6, 2016, 6:10 pm

Fuck the troubles bro. People say fight him 'n stuff, but you can just leave it be and chose purely for your own path. You'll find better people somewhere else!

Heart of Kings - June 6, 2016, 6:11 pm

I would go to a different store as they will probably keep on harassing you and shit just like they did before and try and get you to quit since you went to the Union

Reven?nt - June 6, 2016, 6:26 pm

I thought about it, as well as all the ramifications. I am not going back, and I will be fine by not doing so. The other day when I put in my notice it pretty much took away the power the Union has and gave it to the employer. Essentially what I am doing tomorrow is explaining what happened then seeing if they will give me my job back. Also, I hate the job and I don't even want to deal with them anymore, the idea of going back tomorrow and trying to be sent to another store makes me feel depressed. However, the key questions I asked myself are "Can I afford it? Will I be fine by not going back? etc" and the answer is yes. A few months from now I planned on transferring to another college to be a ground student, I talked to them already and they give students jobs that will pay the same (if not more) than this job. Also, I have been entertaining starting an online business and I have a few ideas, and I got excited thinking about it after quitting. If I go back then I won't be able to pursue it because I will be too busy with this job + college etc.

AMAVI - June 6, 2016, 6:32 pm

(Jun 6, 2016 06:26 PM)Mr Crypto Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I thought about it, as well as all the ramifications. I am not going back, and I will be fine by not doing so. The other day when I put in my notice it pretty much took away the power the Union has and gave it to the employer. Essentially what I am doing tomorrow is explaining what happened then seeing if they will give me my job back. Also, I hate the job and I don't even want to deal with them anymore, the idea of going back tomorrow and trying to be sent to another story makes me feel depressed. However, the key questions I asked myself are "Can I afford it? Will I be fine by not going back? etc" and the answer is yes. A few months from now I planned on transferring to another college to be a ground student, I talked to them already and they give students jobs that will pay the same (if not more) than this job. Also, I have been entertaining starting an online business and I have a few ideas, and I got excited thinking about it after quitting. If I go back then I won't be able to pursue it because I will be too busy with this job + college etc.

Good man, quit that shit job and get a job from the college, it'll be way better, good luck man! :)

Reven?nt - June 6, 2016, 6:35 pm

(Jun 6, 2016 06:32 PM)IGVM Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Good man, quit that shit job and get a job from the college, it'll be way better, good luck man! :)

Very appreciated. Thank you for responding to both my threads regarding this issue and for the support. You definitely earned that +1. :)

Lewd - June 6, 2016, 6:44 pm

I would look for a new job or else grab that job at the other store. I believe since it's a new manager and different store shlt may be different. But what do I know lmao.

HyperKing - June 6, 2016, 7:47 pm

Honestly bro, you're in College and money is hard. If this is an easy way for you to go, I'd go ahead and do the job and just mind my own business. As long as you start working at the department and the guy leaves you alone, you should be good. But, if there's other departments willing to take you, def' go for them over this.

Keep it as a last option

Raddify - June 6, 2016, 7:57 pm try to get a different store op, or else it will be super awkward with people knowing all the trouble caused.

Reven?nt - June 6, 2016, 8:01 pm

(Jun 6, 2016 07:57 PM)Raddify Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) try to get a different store op, or else it will be super awkward with people knowing all the trouble caused.

I appreciate the advice, however, I explained on the last page why I won't be going to talk to them.