Two Questions, semi off topic semi on topic.

1. How do I get approved? I was sure it was by pm'ing omni but he told me he isn't the one who approves and didn't leave me any instructions.

2. I know Omni was considering opening up another group? Is this no longer happening/didn't happen or what. I'm not sure if any other comments have been made but it would really effect my decision on buying the group.

A lot of people were thinking I was planning to scam him, which is incorrect. He knew the terms as to which he purchased in on and I told him that there can only be one owner. The group price was heavily discounted at $500 as Omniscient wanted us to transfer from an unofficial group (The Alliance). I paid this and months later Paradoxum sold me the group for $4,000 USD which soccer paid at the time for a leadership position. The terms were that soccer could in return sell products and invite select members into Null. We spoke frequently on teamspeak and were good friends. However when Soccer continued to do dishonest actives such as bribes behind mine and Vinnie's back and hope we would not notice after we had warned him previously, this was not acceptable.

Omni doesn't give a fuck, so if you keep your mouth shut about keeping the group the same then it'll be fine and you can do whatever you want. Otherwise if Nobility doesn't want you using the name and graphics he won't sell to you. But he's selling the group Null, so when you get it... it'll be Null. You decide what to do from there.

Then my bid remains firm at $3,600

Maybe they are, maybe they aren't. But to just sit here trying to act tough by saying they are nothing makes you look ignorant and says a lot to me and others of how your group or future group will be... which is a shit drama show.

All these new owners don't really get how to utilize a group on HF, they think it's a quick buck but in reality it's not. They buy groups then dispose the groups too fast, it's like if things don't roll their way they give up. Kind've feel as if everyone's simply agreeing with Tommy's statement about "Groups being a sinking ship" but HF has seen this type of thing before. Plus if you look at it hasn't it always been a sinking ship? Only a small fraction of people on HF join groups, it doesn't even come to 25% of the overall population.

Anyways I'll be around and sitting on this open thread for awhile, eventually people will realize that you can't sway me with a cheap offer. It's already been 5 months since I first launched the first thread, I'm fine with waiting around.

At least I can afford to own a group and have it be a 'joke' (even though it wasn't). I don't go around selling buy-ins to a group and then kicking them three days later like someone else. Have fun.
