Thread: Lifetime Invite to Null \$50

Nobility - June 17, 2016, 8:37 pm

Until the group Null is sold (<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5308733>)

I will be inviting everyone into the group for the mere price of $50 per head (BTC)

I expect the group won't be sold for a while considering I've had a sales thread for about a half a year almost.

Here is the old sales thread. <https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5179018>

Note for buyers.

Don't expect activity from our members or the group as it's just an old OG userbar with reputation that stands behind it. I guess this way you can be apart of the legacy of Null before it evaporates into thin air.

- No scammers allowed to buy in.
- If a scam report is issued against you I will personally review it along with old school members and your fate will depend upon their decision, if you've scammed you will be removed. #TheBlackHand

NO REFUNDS

'Be apart of the legacy of Null before it evaporates into thin air.'

If it doesn't require any skill and only money to get into the group then I wouldn't exactly consider it 'being apart of the legacy'. Good luck selling your group and these spots though Nobility.

A legacy past tense.

Past tense of what it used to be not what it's becoming.

PM'ed you about it.

Thanks.

Quick! Let's grab some extra pocket money before the group closes!!

Varane - June 18, 2016, 5:57 am

It would be funny as fuck if the group got sold in a few days after a few buy-in's.

Jon Snow. - June 18, 2016, 6:23 am

To be honest, this is one of the most prestigious groups here. Has a lot of history behind it. It depends whether all the sub-forum content will be kept though, and $50 is a pretty large sum for a group which is completely dead now.

eCoLoGy - June 18, 2016, 7:15 am

Let me try to understand.

I pay 50$ today and I join the group.

If today someone buys the group I get out and my 50$ goes away.

Not trying to be rude or anything here but why would someone buy into a group that's being sold?

If at least you placed a guarantee that members buying in would also be granted lifetime to the new group once it gets sold, then it would be reasonable.

Bullhorn - June 18, 2016, 10:11 am wouldn't be surprised if you had a buyer in line already...

b?xxy - June 18, 2016, 10:16 am

There goes the name Null already lost.

$10 for your userbar on my profile

Undefined - June 18, 2016, 10:26 am

I'm giving the honest truth here, there's no shit as "Lifetime" on this forum for any group. Also why would a new owner even keep those guys around? He's not benefiting with them around.

This is for the guys with the extra pocket money and are planning on spending it for the hell of it.

This is for the guys with the extra pocket money and are planning on spending it for the hell of it. I think $50 is a bit too much. If you lower your price to $25 you'll get more buyers and make more money off that.

I heard Hexi sold over 100 spots with his $25 price point for the black lodge.

I would honestly just sell the spots at $15-20 since the group is getting sold.

I'd do the same but I have a hunch that no ones going to bite for awhile, in terms of buying the group.

If you really don't think the group will sell for another few months why not recruit some mentors and revive the Null legacy a little bit before trying to cash out more on the name? It's just a userbar with admittedly nothing to offer. The prestige is gone.

I don't think anyone with actual skill exists on this forum anymore. You've got skids like Tommy d still e flexing on hackforums in 2016, why else would the group be on sale for so cheap... Back in the days groups cost a lot a more than this.

Besides I don't think he had time to run a group on a forum full of idiots considering 80% of Null were 19+ unlike 80% of the forum.

My opinion is that Null turned into a circle of harassment and fraud with no real place on Hack Forums.

Seeing as how the major players behind the real hacking were banned from Hack Forums years ago and arrested in light of the Darkode scandal, leadership has nothing to offer that will ever aspire to becoming the original Null.

Null was fully moderated by vinnie and he used to sit on hf 24/7 (literally) I mean look at his online time lol, the other members were just people who either were his friends or worked for or with him. Afaik vinnie got arrested and I haven't kept up with what's happening but it seems like the big boys that were behind null all took L's.

Kms
Vinnie
Zeekill
Starfall / aurora.

Those were the big people behind null.

Kms got owned for darkode
Vinnie well he got owned for several things and if I'm correct he's not been imprisoned yet?
Zeekill was a baby so he got a two year suspended sentence
Starfall got lucky and left with a W.

They all made bank from what I remember on team speak from like two years back, I remember vinnie showing me like $300,000 in cash with zeekill when he went to Amsterdam with him, maybe that's how he's kept himself out of prison for so long but who knows... I agree with you, the groups dead, we all know that. But everything that's good comes to an end. Still it's no different than 80% of the current hf groups + you're from 2016 you wouldn't know shit about anything lol.

Not sure where everyone has the idea that Null is inactive or dead. Yes, the HF group is - we don't use the subforum or perform any services here anymore but the group (including old members i.e. Vinnie) are all still active and working on projects off-site.

Null governs themselves, all members generally have to agree with a new member being brought it. Frankly this forum is not the greatest anymore, it's hard finding the diamond in the rough now a days.
