You need to use Spoiler tags for images of this size.

Just to be clear with your post you want to create the icon directly coded in css?

You don't seemed to have done it before so I found this which might help you:

You should really think how this is going to be displayed on each device too.

On a mobile device, I'm guessing the text will barely be readable as it'll be so small.

If I was going to attempt this I'd use a container and add the styling for the border then add something similar to this inside:

Then put another inline div with a less-margin-left to get it to sit nicely next to each other.

Thanks to both of you. Now i understood.

Thanks again
