Thread: Non-anime fans watch anime.

So I enjoy watching an anime every now and again, not a fan like some of you guys in this section so I found this video quite interesting -

I really enjoyed full metal alchemist which was a while back now when I watched it and is really the only "anime-anime" that I have seen.

What are your thoughts on this video?

To most non-anime fans, their entry into watching anime starts with a different show of what appeals to them. One Punch Man is a very high parody, comedy show which will either appeal to some people and not so much to others as you can see in the video.

If they find One Punch Man to be stupid and not funny, They should try watching something like Ghost in the Shell, Psycho-Pass, and Zankyou no Terror. Of course the whole video is about them reacting to One Punch Man which is insanely random which is probably the whole point of the video. Not necessarily to show them anime, but the show itself.

I thought this video was stupid because they showed One Punch Man. If they showed something more serious and plot heavy, then I would have liked it. But One Punch Man is purely a gag anime with no real plot and even these non-viewers realize that.

I personally have never watched One Punch Man so I found their review kind of unfair based on the one anime.
