

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Site that collect all stuff together??

severos - June 29, 2016, 11:46 am

Anyone knows if there's a website, something like MAL, but offers watch/read links too?

Like if I search for some anime/manga title, it returns all the anime episodes with watch (or download) links, along with it's manga links, and H-manga when applicable.

It'd make things pretty easy to collect them rather than searching all around to do it.

Crya - June 29, 2016, 11:56 am

(Jun 29, 2016 11:46 AM)severos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Anyone knows if there's a website, something like MAL, but offers watch/read links too?

Like if I search for some anime/manga title, it returns all the anime episodes with watch (or download) links, along with it's manga links, and H-manga when applicable.

It'd make things pretty easy to collect them rather than searching all around to do it. I don't know of a website that offers this, but I do know that there is userscripts that add the functionality to MAL.

Just got to search.

severos - June 29, 2016, 4:19 pm

I'm not really a fan of userscripts, my experience with them included many browser crashing and screwed up page style.

Someone should make such a website, makes life a bit easier.

Gladly - June 29, 2016, 4:31 pm

(Jun 29, 2016 11:46 AM)severos Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Anyone knows if there's a website, something like MAL, but offers watch/read links too?

Like if I search for some anime/manga title, it returns all the anime episodes with watch (or download) links, along with it's manga links, and H-manga when applicable.

It'd make things pretty easy to collect them rather than searching all around to do it.

For the most part, sites don't do this because all of the sites you little shits download/stream from are not legal, aside from Crunchyroll/Funimation/Daisuki.

Edit: this applies to anime, couldn't tell you about manga.

tweety - June 30, 2016, 8:50 pm

Should use Animebytes since they have a built in MAL uploader.