Thread: Scammed by MilkBone

gvryss - July 2, 2016, 1:44 pm

Hi all,

Once again I am new here but I purchased his top tier e-book to see what it would be like. It also had a refund policy guarantee on it. When I contacted him, he nor replied or refunded me for the e-book. On top of me posting in the thread, he decided to -rep me for wanting the refund that i am ENTITLED to.

Other members have posted about the same problem. Milkbone is a scammer.

Here I have tried to contact him:

Well, did you actually try to use the product?

You need to post more proofs, put the UID in the title maybe even post proof of him ignoring you, im sorry for your loss but you should know to look on every page on an ebook thread to see if there are any bad reviews because many of them are vouches/bumps which may be misleading.

I can't vouch for his ebook but all i can say is if you put in enough effort on any method your bound to make some profit

Well, Did you provide this

1. Refund Warranty is eligible if you purchased the Power or Elite package and if you don't earn anything after 45 days of purchase. In order to get a refund, you must show valid evidence that you've worked on the method provided.

Surprised someone posted this before I did.

@OP you're more than welcome to open a PayPal claim and we can settle it there.

This happened 2 months ago according to his rep on you.

Why are you posting it now and why aren't you providing evidence of him "scamming" you?

Yes, I tried to use his product for more than a month. The least he could have done was try to support me rather than straight up ignoring me. I bought his e-book with a credit card.

He has done the same to other members as well and they have reported a no refund situation from Milkbone also.

Because selling e-books is the only way these guys actually know to make money. Sorry to hear man, but you're outta luck, only advice I can offer you is to not buy any e-books on HF
