Thread: [\[Discussion\] Death Note - Who else thinks that Light had good motive?](#)

Observer - July 11, 2016, 10:37 am

This thread is all about spoilers so if you haven't watch Death Note don't read it

-This is strongly my opinion and probably minorities share it, so if you disagree please explain why.

Spoiler (Click to View) I was personally cheering for Light the whole time I watched Death Note, to me his goals were very clear and I mostly agreed with him, the things he did might be immoral, but the ultimate goal was worth it, too bad L died tho imagine them 2 working together, it would be perfect.

At first his actions had good motive, but then he started getting arrogant, thinking he had to become God.

Then he became not reluctant to killing anyone who was in his way, L being the prime example.

I started off admiring light but starting hoping he would die. Evil as mofo

Depraved - July 11, 2016, 3:55 pm

Light had some amazing intentions when he first began his journey. However, he began pushing it too far when he started killing anyone who was in his way.

Tasemu - July 12, 2016, 12:57 am

The best of 'intentions' sure haha

Zexo - July 12, 2016, 12:59 am

Fuck L light was always a g

Elweth - July 12, 2016, 3:15 am

Of course he has good intentions, just that it got twisted over time.

98329101-41201 - July 12, 2016, 6:11 am

He started off wanting to be noble, but the stress of being hunted down warped his personality and the final outcome.

No doubt the world has certain people it'd be better off with who leave it worse than when they found it, but Light become paranoid and made many people an unnecessary casualty.

Omoi - July 12, 2016, 6:12 am

He got out smarted by N. N is badass. N is god.

Damien from IT - July 12, 2016, 6:16 am

His good intentions became irrelevant as soon as he decided to use the book to evade detection

Professor Pantsu - July 12, 2016, 2:40 pm

Light is just a power hungry self righteous cunt. His motives started out fine in the beginning but he went pretty mad at the end.

GnopMil - July 13, 2016, 8:54 am

His motive is actually good, I like his personality and I think is the best human villain and is it right to lump him together with the likes of Joker?

Getsuga - July 13, 2016, 3:35 pm

He started out with good intentions but then went on a power trip

veknes - July 14, 2016, 5:21 pm

lol he did more good then any of us would have if a death note fell in our hands :P

TraderJack - July 28, 2016, 2:28 pm

Light was a good person. But after he started using Misa Amane he turned bad. He killed Ray Penbar to avoid getting caught. Then the moment he got cocky he started to screw up.

Slip up after slip up.

That mouth of his got him into trouble- he didnt include that in the calculation.

Crya - July 29, 2016, 12:28 am

All the spoilers without spoiler tags. ?

Could possibly ruin a good anime for newcomers.

Xylloz - July 29, 2016, 12:30 am

At the start he had good intentions but throughout the anime he started becoming power hungry and wanting to kill anyone to opposed him and his way of doing things which isn't right.

NoBarsHandler - July 29, 2016, 3:32 am

Like everyone said, he had good intentions but the power went to his head.

Chips Ahoy McCoy - July 29, 2016, 4:10 am

He had a good motive, but an evil execution.

Yep, tends to happen a lot in this section for some reason.

If someone actually comes in the Death Note discussion thread and complains about spoilers apparently didn't think anything through.

OT: I believe his motives initially was good but having to constantly be on his toes and watch out for being caught eventually
