I would like a free one-time session, I'm a disturbed, depressed, obese, and low self-esteem individual looking to get life advice from someone who wants to make easy money off me in the long run until i get enough courage to become a serial killer or something.. ?

Please add me in Skype for a free consultation. However I would ask you do not perform sales trashing if that is what this is. Life Coaching is quite different than counseling. Thank you.

I purchased the basic life coaching and it helped me tremendously. I plan on purchasing again and would advise anyone debating it to go ahead and do so. This was awesome.

I do full business review and have done project management for many years. HMU guys.

I can verify that Lord Brett offers an extremely high quality service, I took advantage of his services and he explained every possible scenario that i would encounter and specifically the do's and dont's that i would need to know in my specific situation. The time and effort that he took can really show that he really cares about his service and most importantly helping others.

Bumping this thread again to show that this service is 100% Active and Real! I have been doing a lot of work outside of hackforums, but this service is very well alive!

A recent review written by one of my current clients:

Sérgio

When I was a just a boy I was taken to see my first psychologist due to depression. In the 10 years following I have seen countless mental health professionals and I never felt or got better. After a while I formed a bad opinions about counseling and psychology as a whole, I saw most of them as leeches sucking up both my parents and my money. When I approached Dragon... well, this guy was different, way different. I felt like I had someone actually caring for me and not my money. The relationship was also different, it was more friendly, less doctor-patient, and after so many mental health professionals this was the only person able to help and able to understand. I genuinely felt in the abyss and with his guidance I was able to climb out and create my own path. Dragon's Life Coaching helped me get back on track and keeps me on track to this day.

Anyone looking to get an edge on life, or just looking to crawl out of the hole you are in, feel free to contact me on Skype, or Discord.
