Thread: [\[HOW TO\] easily track down the Pokemon you want](#)

Herbert - July 15, 2016, 2:35 pm

[img]http://fontmeme.com/embed.php?text=Catch%20%27Em%20All%21&name=Pokemon%20Hollow.ttf&size=100&style_color=000000[/img]

so I haven't seen a thread about this, so I'm going to teach you how to easily track down the pokemon you want

Basically depending on the footsteps below the "Nearby" Pokemon

Here is an in-depth guide on how to figure out where the footsteps lead to and how to track them easier, make sure you are in the right direction if the footstep changes up it means you are getting closer, if it changes down it means you are getting further away.

Picture Source:

<http://kotaku.com/nobody-actually-knows-how-pokemon-gos-nearby-feature-wo-1783585598>

If the pokemon you want isn't nearby, try a different location or at a different time.

I hope this tutorial was helpful, if you need any more help feel free to contact me.

Kind Regards,
John Herbert

Varane - July 15, 2016, 2:37 pm

Thanks for this quick short guide, this is gonna be really helpful for my long journey. This is quite intense, i wonder how they figured this out.

Parks - July 15, 2016, 2:38 pm

This is actually pretty helpful I just drive around in circles until I end up in someone's backyard and able to obtain an eevee.

TRAUMA - July 15, 2016, 2:38 pm

This is actually pretty helpful! I remember my cousin (yesterday) always said "To the right there is one!" (On all of them) Because she thought that they where arrows pointing to them..

Haha, you're welcome! I've caught many pokemons with this, it's very helpful, however I have to catch up with a car if I want a rare pokemon for some reason LOL.

A NEW ERA... - July 15, 2016, 2:39 pm

I wonder if this actually works, someone should post about this working. Would love to see some results by someone other than OP.

Omoi - July 15, 2016, 2:39 pm

Well thanks for this, I have no idea I see a zubat pretty close however already have 1 of them and I hate it I want a better one

Yung Metro - July 15, 2016, 2:40 pm

Wow this is a very useful thread you have here sir it cleared up a lot of things for me that I didn't know.

Frankey - July 15, 2016, 2:40 pm

Ofcourse this works, because this is logic. It might not always work because sometimes they despawn or something like that (idk) but its totally possible

YayHar - July 15, 2016, 2:40 pm

People are taking this game very seriously and making this a full CSI mission and sending rockets to the moon just to find a zoobat.

Choco pie - July 15, 2016, 2:40 pm

Thanks for this bro, I wana find another pikachu because two is better than one

TopKekeroni - July 15, 2016, 2:40 pm

Thanks, going to use this when I am catching pokemon to see if I can get the one I want. Currently trying to evolve my eevee. :)

Yassuo - July 15, 2016, 2:41 pm

Thanks for this man, this is very helpful to me <3

I actually watch this youtuber a lot, you may know him as the guy finding a murder while playing csgo, and getting fired from uber. his channel is <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCB8Kb4pxYzsDsHxzBfnid4Q> he streams every now and then on youtube, I really enjoy his content, nice and funny guy.

Alex - July 15, 2016, 2:44 pm

Nearby pokemons have never worked for me. It's just empty. It might be because it's not officially released in my country yet?

yeah that could be the problem I would wait for the estimated release date to avoid bugs.

J?son - July 15, 2016, 2:48 pm

lol yea, surprisingly this is very accurate ?

Viral Dragon - July 15, 2016, 2:50 pm

Or you could select a target pokemon and go to the swirling laves in the area, and look at the pulsing that comes off when you walk. Green is the right direction. White is neutral. and red is wrong way. I've tested that with 48 pokmon now.

DeadCode - July 15, 2016, 2:52 pm

I actually thought those paw prints were the actual prints of the pokemon I was searching for. Welp...

it's a great game, but risky as I seen people breaking speed limits to catch a rare pokemon XD

Thanks for the guide John Herbert, I questioned the little foot prints on the ground. Hopefully others can see this thread to help them catch the pokemon around them.

I can't wait for somebody to get clinically addicted to this game, it'll happen.

I don't know, I feel it deep inside me, inside my bones, but it'll happen.

CyberGuard - July 15, 2016, 3:28 pm

This is quite helpful, although you have to keep in mind this is just a game.

I must say that it is, quite a genius way of making fat kids get off their asses to walk those extra miles.

Wings of Redemption - July 15, 2016, 3:28 pm

Thank you so much for this! I've been wondering what those footprints meant, but the in game help option is pretty shitty

Rosened - July 15, 2016, 3:29 pm

Thanks for this! I will use this guide for when I go out for Pokemon again

Black Flash ? - July 15, 2016, 3:30 pm

Thanks for the guide, had no idea how much steps the footsteps actually meant but this will help tho.

Level 12 (almost 13) at the moment.

TheFiddler - July 15, 2016, 3:31 pm

This is a life saver. Most of the time I see a pokemon that I want to catch and get hype, but I continue going straight and it disappears so I just say screw it and keep going.

? TAQ ? - July 15, 2016, 3:31 pm

This was actually helpful OP, going to save this guide for future reference....also...you aren't luring any boys are you John?

JASON AND MEDEA - July 15, 2016, 3:31 pm

Thanks Herbert you perverts! Actually a nice HOW TO post.

lucky. - July 15, 2016, 3:32 pm

Yea I saw this on imgur a few days ago, I probably would just walk around until I knew where I was heading. Just feels like less work even when it may be more.

sHAY - July 15, 2016, 3:33 pm

Thank you for this guide, this will hopefully help a lot new people getting to understand the game more. Good shit man!.

Pung0d - July 15, 2016, 3:33 pm

Looks like you actually came up with the formula for this.
Interesting. Thanks for the guide tho!

Cameron - July 15, 2016, 3:34 pm

Didn't actually have the slightest clue what those little footsteps were for but the makes perfect sense. Thanks for the share mate :)

Now I just have to get myself out of bed and go for a drive, knowing this will make finding the Pokemon a whole lot easier haha.

Herbert - July 15, 2016, 3:51 pm

thank you all for the great support! glad I could educate other members like I've been educated.

Mix - July 15, 2016, 3:52 pm

This is really helpful I can understand the tracking system a lot easier now. May even be able to find that mew because of you thanks!

Mr. Corleone - July 15, 2016, 3:53 pm

Yeah, I read this and tested it out. However when my pokemon goes from 3 steps to 2, and it suddenly dissapears, I walk back a few steps and it will suddenly go to 3 steps instead of 2. Pretty weird.

Also remember pokemons are spawned for 5 mintues.

Pokemon move, they don't stand still :)

that's why rare ones are so hard to catch, one second you see them, the next second they are across town O_O

Yeah, exactly..

I never found a rare pokemon tho, this fucking sucks. I am level 21 and I literally only have pidgys and other shit. The only rare pokemon I have is Pinsir and fucken.. golduck both from eggs. There are no rare pokemon in my area.

I've seen it once and it goes so fast, you will definitely need to run for them, or drive a car.

It's a little bugged or intended.

I'm not quiet sure in all honesty.

This doesn't work for me, for some reason Pokemon never show up exactly where I'd expect them to be (even using this method).

I know some countries are not registered correctly yet, perhaps downloaded via APK, must wait until it's released for your country for all the bugs to dissolve.
