Hello

I'm more than happy to help anyone with questions regarding crypto currency...
Topics such as price speculation, altcoins, pre-Anns, wallets, etc

Post your questions and I'll respond in depth!

Hello,

I made a deposit to a bitcoin site and double-spent it, now i need to withdraw but all deposits must be confirmed first. But because the deposit is a double-spent, it will never confirm. The double-spent transaction disappeared from the blockchain already, but it still says "all deposits must confirm first". I already contacted the support and tried to deposit again and let it confirm, but no luck :/
Is possible to bypass this? I will offer you a nice bounty if you could resolve this :)

Thank you! ?

If you have double spent it, where is the confirmed spend of the transaction?

As for bypassing it, not possible. Miners have already rejected the transaction. Double spends are never able to be confirmed unless you have an extraordinary hash power (we're talking large % of the total network hash power).
