

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: For all you flashcart users or pirates... bad news

Angelus - July 21, 2016, 2:56 pm

Some of you guys may not have heard, but some of u have, so i am here showing you Nintendo's response to people like us and what we do:

The primary goal of the Anti-Piracy Program is to reduce Internet piracy, availability of various infringing devices used to play illegal Nintendo game files, and the production and distribution of counterfeit Nintendo products around the world. Through education, raising awareness and legal actions, Nintendo is working hard to preserve the video game industry's ability to make investments into developing new and exciting games, and to give all legally-sold Nintendo games a chance to succeed. Developing a single video game often takes several years of work for teams of game developers, artists, animators, musicians, motion capture artists and others. Costs also climb into the millions of dollars to develop and bring one game to market. Piracy continues to be a significant threat to Nintendo's business, as well as over 1,400 game development companies working to provide unique and innovative games for the Nintendo platform. Internet piracy and counterfeiting of Nintendo's video game products is illegal. We hope to enlist your support for intellectual property protection and with your help reduce video game piracy worldwide. We appreciate your support in the battle against piracy.

This is from: `ap(.)nintendo(.)com`

My opinion: This sucks, but, we shouldve seen it coming from the moment the r4, sky, and gateway were released, im not angry about their actions, just kinda bummed ig lol. Hopefully our devs can find someway around this.

~Ang3lus

tron - July 21, 2016, 8:26 pm

They expect $6.00 for a virtual copy of a game that came out 30 years ago, and wonder why people pirate.